IKE AND MACMILLAN WELCOMED

Mrs. John Hay Whitney, wife of the U.S. Ambassador to Britain, shakes hands with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan as she welcomes President Eisenhower and Macmillan to the Whitney home in London. Macmillan rode with Ike on the 16-mile-long motorcade trip from London's airport.

Mighty Cheer Rises To Greet President

...State Car Barely Moves Through Throngs

London (AP)—A half million Londoners gave President Eisenhower a stirring welcome Thursday night as he arrived from West Germany to fortify the British-American Alliance before September's Eisenhower-Khrushchev talks.

The greeting was unexpectedly warm and expansive for the late evening hour the President arrived, and threw askew the advance schedule of his ride from London Airport to his night's lodging, the U.S. Embassy residence. He arrived here 31 minutes late with his car crawling at times through crowds packed 20 deep along the sidewalks.

It was the second day in a row that the President had tasted the warmth of European regard for him. Wednesday 300,000 had greeted him in Bonn and its vicinity.

Pledge Repeated

He left Bonn after 5½ hours of talks with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in which he reiterated the U.S. pledge to "protect the freedom and welfare of the people of Berlin."

"I believe that we have achieved much," he told Adenauer in a message radioed from his plane.

Now Eisenhower is to have 6 days of talks with the leaders of Britain—"this land I have learned so much to love."

The World War II chieftain turned statesman got a rousing reception from a London airport crowd police estimated at 5,000.

"Good old Ike—great to see you," spectators yelled.

Eisenhower grinned broadly.

Jet Sets Down

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan welcomed Eisenhower in sunny, moderately warm weather when his orange-nosed jet set down after the 85-minute flight from Bonn.

Macmillan remarked that the problems which face the allies are difficult. Eisenhower expressed hope that their talks will further the cause of world peace.

"You are a President whose name was a household word to all of us before your election to high office," Macmillan said.

"We have equal confidence that, as leader of a great sister democracy, you will carry through your task with the same courage and same success as when you were the general leading the Allied forces in World War II."

Eisenhower, speaking without any reference to notes, said he appreciated the kind words.

"Best Friends"

"I must say my deepest reaction and sentiment at this moment is that of extraordinary pleasure, true enjoyment to be back here again in this land I have learned so much to love. Here are some of my warmest and best friends.

"I did not have to come here to assure you or the British people that the American people stand with them strongly, firmly and determinedly in defense of freedom and the dignity of man.

"It is good that we can have the opportunity to view these changing problems and to counsel together as to how to meet them.

"I count on this being one of the most enjoyable and most fruitful journeys I have made in many countries of the world."

Amid cheers and shouts of "Good old Ike," he drove off with Macmillan in an open Rolls Royce to Winfield House the London home of U.S. Ambassador John Hay Whitney, to spend the night.

The President, laughing and smiling, stood and waved his hat. The route for the 16-mile drive had been published in advance and cheering thousands lined the way.

Housing Bill Goes To Ike

Huge Margin On Passage Dares Presidential Veto

Washington (AP)—The House sent President Eisenhower a $1,050,000,000 housing bill Thursday and virtually dared him to veto it.

In the face of clear evidence that Eisenhower finds much of the measure objectionable in principle, the House voted 283-105 to pass the bill.

If the same proportion prevailed on a vote to override a veto, there would be no trouble in passing the bill over Eisenhower's disapproval.

The Senate vote on passage, on Aug. 18, was likewise overwhelming—71-24.

It takes a two-thirds majority of those voting to override a veto—something Congress has never done to Eisenhower.

Some House Republicans contended in debate a veto was probable, if not almost certain. They said the bill contained much the same items, if on a smaller scale, that were in the $1,375,000,000 housing bill Eisenhower turned down last month as extravagant and inflationary.

Not Too Costly

But Democrats contended this was a sound bill, not unduly expensive, and one that Eisenhower could veto only to the detriment of fellow Americans who need better homes.

On final passage, 54 Republicans and 229 Democrats voted for the bill. Against it were 76 Republicans and 29 Democrats.

Here are the bill's major provisions:

Urban renewal, or slum clearance—650 million dollars in grants, available at once. The administration asked 300 million for each of the next two years.

Public housing—37,000 new units. The administration opposed any new ones.

College dormitories — 250 million dollars in loans. The administration asked 200 million.

College classrooms — 50 million in loans. The administration opposed any.

Housing for the elderly— 50 million in direct loans. The administration wanted none.

FHA Hike

Under the bill, the maximum amount of an FHA-insured mortgage on a single family home could be $22,500; it is $20,000 now. FHA down payments would be lowered. For example, the downpayment on an $18,000 home could be $855 as compared to the present $1,380.

The opening of House debate was marked, too, by speculation that President Eisenhower might call a special session of Congress if he again is sent a bill he deems excessive.

Rep. Albert Rains (D-Ala), who is managing the Senate-passed bill in the House, declared:

"We have gone as far to meet the President's objections as you can expect this congress to go.

"I know this is the last housing bill coming up in this congress this year.

Nebraskans Split

Washington (AP)—the Nebraska Congressional delegation split along party lines 2-2 Thursday as the House approved the housing bill.

Voting for the bill were Democrats Larry Brock and Don McGinley. Listed as opposed were Republicans Glenn Cunningham and Phil Weaver.

State Contractors Bid On Douglas Projects

...Despite Wage-Setting Policy

Nebraska contractors bid on two controversial highway jobs in Douglas County Thursday despite the implication that most would refuse to bid in protest of the governor's wage-setting policy.

The two projects, part of $4,500,000 in construction and maintenance jobs for which bids were opened, were 1.3 miles of grading, pavement, culverts and asphaltic concrete surface on U.S. Highway 30-A between Waterloo and Nebraska Highway 38, and 2 miles of grading, culverts, one bridge, and one viaduct on Nebraska 31 between Nebraska 36 and the Washington County line.

Henry Schlitt, deputy chief engineer, said one contractor bid on the entire U.S. 30-A project, and another bid on a part of the project.

8 Bidders

For the Nebraska 31 project, 8 contractors bid on various portions varying from all to part, Schlitt said.

The Nebraska chapter of the Associated General Contractors has charged Gov. Ralph Brooks with wasting taxpayers' money and bowing to labor unions in directing that wages on Douglas County projects be higher than in the rest of the state.

The governor has replied that the higher wages are in accordance with federal regulations on projects in which federal funds are used. The U.S. Department of Labor has set higher wages in Douglas and Sarpy counties than in the rest of the state, the governor's office said.

Various contractors have implied there would be few if any bids submitted on the two projects because of the higher wages.

The apparent low bidders are to be announced Friday.

136.9 Miles

In all, the projects up for bid total 136.9 miles of construction in addition to some 53 gravel maintenance projects.

The estimated cost is $4,500,000. Federal aid interstate funds make up $1,885,000 of the estimate while state construction funds make up $1,400,000.

Federal aid primary funds account for $735,000; federal aid secondary funds are estimated at $175,000; county funds at $30,000 and state maintenance funds at $275,000.

Financing Uncertain

Because of the uncertainty of the federal financing program, especially on the interstate, agreements have been altered from 30 to 45 days as the time limit in which to award contracts after bids are received, Deputy State Engineer Henry Schlitt said.

If the contracts have not been let within that time, the department must negotiate an agreement with the low bidder to award the contracts at a later date, he said.

Some contracts, especially those involving state funds and county funds, such as maintenance projects, state projects and county secondary projects probably will be let without delay, Schlitt said.

Texan Dies As Trailer Flips Truck

Bloomfield, Neb. (AP)—An Avery, Texas pipeline worker, Norman E. Strikland, was killed Thursday when his pickup truck went out of control and overturned several times pinning him beneath the vehicle.

The accident happened about 12 miles east of Bloomfield on U.S. 81.

Witnesses said the Strikland pickup was pulling a large house trailer down a long hill when the trailer began to swerve back and forth. They said the trailer caused the pickup to go out of control

A son, Bruce, 12 was also riding in the cab. He was uninjured. Strikland's wife and several other children were following in a car.

The death raised the Nebraska fatality toll to 217, 10 more than on Aug. 27 last year.

Demos Back Down

Agree To Early House Hashout

Washington (UPI)—A group of rebellious Democrats backed down Thursday and reluctantly agreed to help pave the way for an early House showdown on a proposed penny-a-gallon hike in federal gasoline taxes for the next 22 months.

The Democrats, members of the House Public Works Committee, previously had balked at the plan which was worked out by the House Ways and Means Committee to keep the multi-billion dollar super-highway program rolling.

Caucus

They decided on their about-face at a caucus after the Ways & Means group had rejected a compromise, devised by Speaker Sam Rayburn and endorsed by the Public Works Democrats, to continue the gasoline tax increase for only 12 months.

Public Works Chairman Charles A. Buckley (D-N.Y.) was said to have told the caucus he would call a meeting of the full committee Tuesday to clear the bill for House floor action.

Chinese Occupy Area In Kashmir

New Delhi (Friday) (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru told the Indian parliament today that the Chinese Communists have forcibly occupied Indian territory in the Ladakh section of Kashmir state despite Indian protests.

Nehru said the Chinese had established a camp at Spanggur, well within Indian territory, and India had protested to Peiping.

The Chinese, he said, had claimed the territory as their own and had arrested an Indian reconnaissance party which had been sent to the border.

City Leaders Express Grief At Jeary Death

Former Lincoln mayors and civic leaders joined Thursday night in expressing both their own personal grief and sense of loss and that of the city of Lincoln at the death of former Mayor Clark Jeary.

Mayor Pat Boyles was out of town and unavailable for comment.

Honest . . . respected . . . capable . . . these words frequently appeared in the eulogy to Clark Jeary by prominent Lincolnites closely associated with him. These included:

R. E. Campbell, a former mayor: His passing is a great loss to the city and state. He was a man of great accomplishments, dedicated to the betterment of the city and his fellow citizens. I am sure everybody feels a sense of personal loss.

Former Governor Victor Anderson, also a former mayor: It was my pleasure to serve as mayor when he was on the city council. He was a great civic leader. The loss will be felt by everyone. I always had the greatest respect for him.

Former Mayor Richard O. Johnson: I was associated with Mr. Jeary from 1926-29 in the practice of law in the Trust Building and I feel that I got my start under him. He exerted much influence on my life. I will greatly miss him. In his passing, Lincoln has sustained a great loss, a loss which is felt very deeply in my family.

Byron Dunn, president, National Bank of Commerce: to the town and to us. He was an honest man and respected. As head of our trust department he often expressed how satisfied he was in having the opportunity to be able to do things for people.

City Councilman and acting mayor C. W. D. Kinsey: I am greatly shocked and grieved by the death of Clark Jeary. I want to extend my sincere sympathy to Mrs. Jeary and the family. Lincoln has lost a truly great citizen and a loyal public servant. His service to the city as mayor was the greatest.

Blaze Damages Sayre Home

A blaze early Friday morning caused considerable damage to the home of Charles D. Sayre, 1834 So. 25.

The fire which started in the third floor of the home was responsible for extensive fire and water damage to the floors below although the flames were contained in the attic.

Cause of the fire was not immediately determined. Firemen, who were hampered by heavy smoke, extinguished the fire in about 30 minutes.

Tear Gas Tossed At School Board

Little Rock, Ark. (AP) — Two powerful tear gas bombs were set off Thursday night in the foyer of school board headquarters while the board was holding a routine meeting upstairs.

Fumes filled the building and it was evacuated. There was no damage and no one was injured.

The school board has been under segregationist fire for opening high schools under a token plan of integration. Five Negroes attend two schools with about 2,300 white students.

A Negro janitor said he saw 3 white women running away from the front door shortly before he noticed the fumes. He said the women jumped into a waiting car which sped away. He did not get the license number.

Police found 3 women's sandals near the steps of the building. They said the shoes apparently were lost by the women in their flight.

About 30 persons were attending the board meeting upstairs. They left by a rear exit.

The board adjourned the meeting to offices of the Chamber of Commerce two blocks away.

Polaris Missile Fired From Ship At Sea

Punch From Submarines Step Nearer

Cape Canaveral, Fla. (AP)—The Navy's Polaris missile was fired for the first time Thursday from a ship at sea and took a big step in its development as a nuclear punch for roving submarines.

The successful shot followed by a week a Moscow Radio claim that Russian submarines could enter Hudson Bay from under Arctic ice and bombard the industrial heart of America with ballistic missiles.

The launching of the 28-foot test version of the Polaris was one of the most spectacular ever seen here.

7 Miles Off Cape

The USS Observation Island, a 563-foot converted transport ship, glided slowly through calm Atlantic waters about 7 miles off the Cape.

As the countdown reached zero, compressed air popped the Polaris out of a tube buried vertically in the deck of the ship. The missile leaped silently to a point 70 feet overhead and its first stage engine ignited.

Spurting a tail of white smoke from its solid fuel, the Polaris curved high in the sky and sped down the Atlantic missile range to a watery target some 700 miles away. A bright flash of fire a minute after launch revealed ignition of the second stage.

Compression Tubes

Compression chambers similar to the one used Thursday will launch the Polaris from submarines. These chambers, similar to torpedo-launching tubes, will enable a built-in firing mechanism to trigger the first stage engine above water.

The Navy announced the success of the shot an hour after launching.

Capt. Robert F. Sellers, commander of the naval ordnance test unit here, messaged Capt. Leslie Slack, commanding officer of the Observation Island:

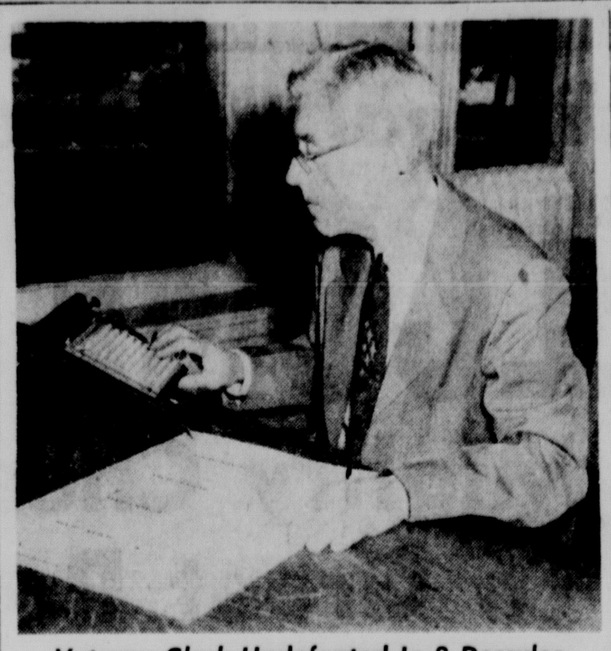

"Congratulations to you and your team on completion of a significant milestone."

The team included some 350 Navy crewmen of the ship and about 50 technicians from Lockheed Aircraft Corp., which builds the missile.

Robbers Strike Denver Bank

Denver (UPI) — Two men held up the University Hills Bank in south Denver late Thursday and escaped with an after-hours collection of about $10,000.

Bank officials said one man, armed with a .45-caliber automatic, forced his way past two employes as they were leaving the bank's main entrance. His accomplice remained outside as a lookout. The pair fled in a stolen red and white convertible.

Veteran Clerk Undefeated In 3 Decades

Butler County Clerk Joe J. Dworak hasn't been defeated at the polls in 32 years. He plans to retire at the close of his present term in 1962. (Star Staff Photo)

'Plenty Of Loyal Service' Nets 32 Years In Office

By Gene Budig

David City, Neb. — Joe J. Dworak of David City is a politician.

And he's a mighty good one as his election record as Butler County Clerk substantiates.

Since taking over the Butler County post by appointment in May of 1927, Dworak hasn't lost an election.

The veteran campaigner's formula for success at the polls is a simple one—"Give the public plenty of loyal service."

'Unbeatable'

"Such a formula is unbeatable," he said, "after all, what more could the public ask for?"

However, Dworak's days as a public servant are numbered. He plans to call it quits at the end of his present term in 1962.

The 61-year-old, who has never filed for another public position, said the maintenance of the county clerk's office has got to be a downright headache.

"Why, it's gettin' to be a full time job to keep up with the new state and federal government programs," he said pointing to a pile of instructional booklets.

'More Complicated'

He continued, "Every year the new legislation gets more complicated and one has to be a real translator to get through it."

Dworak, assisted by an office girl, said that in order to keep things up he has to put in a 60-hour week. "But I've enjoyed working hard for our people, they're a fine bunch of folks,'" he added.

Dworak, a bachelor, hopes to just "take it easy" after resigning in 1962.

A. Q. Finds Magic Word For Japanese—'Basbol'

By Charles Beal

A Lincoln man used his years of experience at playing host to thousands to good advantage in breaking down a language barrier between East and West Thursday night.

Landing at Lincoln Municipal airport was a 19-man overseas farm affairs observation team from Japan for the second stop in a 51-day tour for a look-see at agriculture throughout the world.

The Japanese delegation, composed mainly of farm equipment manufacturers, was quickly hustled to the Cornhusker for food and lodging.

Something Amiss

With the group and their luggage fairly overflowing the lobby, it gradually became uncomfortably evident that something was amiss.

The visitors from the Orient had forgotten to bring along an interpreter.

None could speak enough English to adequately communicate. Professor Lloyd Hurlburt, professor and chairman of the Agriculture College Department of Agricultural Engineering and Col. Hobb Turner, retired assistant Nebraska adjutant general, who had met the delegation's plane, could speak only "pidgin" Japanese.

The mechanics of establishing room accomodations and prices dragged along painfully with the aid of gestures and a word or two which occasionally was recognized by the communicants.

Schimmel Has Magic Word

Then A. Q. Schimmel, proprietor of the Cornhusker, who had been supervising the guests' registration, asked M. Naka, manufacturing executive, if he would be interested in attending a Lincoln Chiefs baseball game at Sherman Field.

Upon mention of the word "baseball," the faces of the Japanese lit up as if by magic.

"Basbol, basbol, yes, yes!! they repeated excitedly.

The evening was already a success. Anxious, confused frowns gave way to smiles.

Top Japanese Sport

Baseball, of course, has become the top Japanese spectator sport with popular appeal almost equal to that in the USA.

After their unscheduled appearance at the baseball game Thursday night, the Japanese businessmen were to spend most of the day Friday at the Ag College in the department of Agricultural engineering and were to spend 4 hours at the tractor testing station.

Saturday, they will be visiting the Farm Equipment Institute at Chicago. Other countries on the itinerary are England, France, the Netherlands, Germany, Switzerland, Italy, Burma and Hong Kong Province, China.

Police Shifts To Begin Duties Hour Earlier

By Del Harding

The first change in the work schedules of Lincoln policemen in more than 10 years will be put into effect next Tuesday in an attempt to provide the city with better traffic enforcement.

Police Chief Joe Carroll said each of the department's 3 major shifts will come to work one hour earlier (and get off an hour earlier) than under the present schedule.

Present starting times are 7:30 a.m., 3:30 p.m. and 11:30 p.m. The new times will be 6:30 a.m., 2:30 p.m. and 10:30 p.m.

Carroll said the pushing back of the starting times is being done in line with the department's "selective enforcement" traffic program in an effort to better control traffic problem areas.

He said at present the first shift motorcycle officers do not get out onto the street until 8 a.m. and by this time most of the morning rush hour traffic is over with. Under the new plan the 6 officers assigned to motorcycle duty will be on the streets by 7 a.m. and will be able to aid with the heavy volume of early-morning traffic.

Carroll also said the second shift's 6 additional motorcycle officers now will be on the streets at 3 p.m. and will thus be able to be on hand when schools let out at 3:15 p.m.

A secondary advantage of the new hours, he added, will be in connection with investigation of burglaries.

Burglary Probes

At present most overnight breakins are reported between 7 and 8 a.m. by businessmen coming to work. The two night detectives must investigate them and then the follow-up investigative work is assigned to day detectives.

Under the new plan, the day detective shift of about 7 men will be on duty at 7 a.m. and they will be assigned to check on the burglaries. Besides reducing the work load of the two night detectives it will eliminate splitting up the investigation of a case between two officers.

Carroll said the last change in the department's work schedule was in about 1948 when the officers went on the present 8-hour day from the former 10-hour work day.

City High School Youths To Again Be In Broadcasts

Local high school students will again be participating in the "Voice of the Young Citizen" broadcasts sponsored by the Governmental Research Institute, radio station KFOR, and 5 city high schools.

Northeast, Southeast, Lincoln, University, and Pius X high school students will be presenting the programs running October 11 through January 17.

Speech, political science, and civics students prepare panel discussions on government, community and social problems which are then aired as "Voice of the Young Citizen" broadcasts.

HOUSE-SENATE LABOR TALKERS HAVE TROUBLE

Washington (AP) — Opposing positions of Senate and House labor bill conferees appeared to be hardening somewhat after an 8th day of seeking a compromise formula.

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass), the conference chairman, scheduled another session for Friday morning and said he still is hopeful a bill might be worked out by Friday night.

But the Massachusetts senator was unable to report any progress Thursday on 3 tough points of disagreement.

These involve secondary boycotts in the garment and construction industries and consumer picketing as a part of a secondary boycott affecting a retail store.

AVC Asks Revocation Of Legion Charter

Washington (AP)—The American Veterans Committee Thursday asked Congress to revoke the congressional charter of the American Legion and investigate its tax tax-exempt status and other federal privileges.

The AVC made public a telegram it sent to Chairman Olin Teague (D-Tex) of the House Veterans Committee asking the investigation. It asserted the Legion had forfeited its privilege of government support by continuing to favor racial discrimination within its ranks.

The AVC also sent letters to Vice President Richard M. Nixon and a group of legislators it said are interested in civil rights urging them to support an investigation of the Legion.

Neither Nixon nor Teague was immediately available for comment. All top Legion officials were in Minneapolis where the Legion's annual convention is being held.

"Why," asked Mickey Levine, AVC national chairman, "should the American Legion be granted tax exemption, a congressional charter, Veterans Administration recognition and other federal benefits when its actions are clearly unconstitutional?"

The letters not only mentioned racial discrimination, but said the Legion had made irresponsible denunciations of the Supreme Court, UNESCO, the Fund for the Republic and the American Civil Liberties Union.

An AVC spokesman said the telegram and letters were based on actions by the Legion's National Convention.

Don't miss it. News of friends on vacation, marriages, engagements, parties, P.T.A. notes and club meetings makes good reading in The Sunday Journal and Star.

X15 To Make First Powered Flight Friday

Edwards Air Force Base, Calif. (AP)—The rocket ship X15, expected ultimately to zoom at 4,000 m.p.h. 100 miles above the earth, is scheduled to make its first powered flight Friday.

With ace test pilot Scott Crossfield at the controls, the needle-like black craft will go aloft locked under the wing of a bomber. At 38,000 feet it will be dropped and will fly under the power of its two low-thrust rocket engines.

Crossfield will level off, make some turns, then come in for a landing on a dry lake bed at this Air Force flight test center.

Takeoff is expected about 9 a. m. (EST) with the touch down about 45 minutes later.

The X15, was dropped once before from the bomber, gliding to a landing without power. Before that it underwent several flights going up and back under the bomber's wing.

Fire Survivor Visiting In City

A survivor of the Stahleim, Norway, hotel fire in which Ned Prucha of Lincoln was killed is visiting relatives in Lincoln.

Miss Carolyn Hile of Russell, Ia., is staying at the home of her uncle, Orrin Webster, a professor at the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture.

Miss Hile became acquainted with Ned's sister, Claire, while sharing a hospital room with her after the fire.

Back injuries suffered in jumping from a second story window of the burning hotel forced Miss Hile to cut short a 2½-month European vacation.

She is a dietician at the University of Colorado in Denver.

Brazil Tells Birrell Get Out In 15 Days

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil (AP)—Brazil Thursday told Lowell McAfee Birrell, charged in New York in a 14 million dollar stock fraud, to get out of the country within 15 days.

Birrell's Brazilian attorney, Jorge Chaloupe Sobrinho, ob-

Lowell M. Birrell
. . . his passports seized

jected and said he would file a formal protest with the Brazilian Justice Ministry.

U.S. Consul Malcolm Hallam announced he would try to get Birrell's American passport in order to force his return to the United States. Birrell also held a Canadian passport. Brazilian police seized both.

If the New Yorker cannot get his Canadian passport, Hallam will issue him one good only for a trip back to the United States. Birrell cannot be returned on criminal charges as there is no U.S.-Brazilian extradition treaty.

In New York, Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan said he did not plan to send representatives from his office to Brazil, but that his staff would be in touch with the U.S. State Department, the office of the U.S. attorney and Birrell's New York counsel. Hogan said he was pleased with the Brazilian government's action.

Order Signed

Justice minister Armando Falcao signed the order canceling Birrell's permanent residence papers on grounds the American did not come to Rio to work, but as a tourist. He therefore was not entitled to permanent residence papers, Falcao held.

Birrell, 52, is wanted in New York on charges of defrauding stockholders of the Swan-Finch Oil Corp., and of the Doeskin Products Corp. He was president of Swan-Finch and chairman of Doeskin. He disappeared in 1957 and only recently was located in Brazil.

A NIKE FOR THE FAIR

Up from the Pueblo, Colo., Ordnance Repair Depot to be displayed at the Nebraska State Fair is this fearsome looking Nike Hercules ground to air missile. Capable of intercepting and knocking out of the skies enemy missiles of supersonic speeds, the Hercules is a forerunner of the nike Zeus which will be even deadlier yet. Also on display will be the Navy's Talos guided missile. The Nike Hercules will be stationed at Berks and Agnew. The presence at the fair of the above Nike (minus its operational warhead) was arranged by the Army Reserve and the Nebraska Department of Agriculture. (Star Photo.)

3 MARINE GENERALS RETIRE

Washington (AP) — Simultaneous retirement of 3 high ranking generals of the Marine Corps was announced Thursday.

The officers, all lieutenant generals, are listed second, third and fourth in corps seniority after the commandant.

They are Vernon E. MeGee, commanding general of the Fleet Marine Force, Pacific, Edwin A. Pollock, commanding general of the Fleet Marine Force, Atlantic, and Merrill B. Twining, commandant of the Marine Corps Schools at Quantico, Va.

In announcing the resignations, Marine Corps headquarters provided no explanation for their simultaneous departure, but presumably they are retiring while they still may receive a promotion to 4-star rank on the retired lists.

A new law has set Nov. 1—the date their resignations are effective — as the deadline after which Navy, Marine and Coast Guard officers no longer will get a retirement promotion if combat records are good.

The 3 Marine generals all are veterans of World War II and Korea.

MeGee is 59, Pollock 60, and Twining, a younger brother of Air Force Gen. Nathan Twining, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, is 56.

MeGee has completed 40 years active duty, Pollock 38 years and Twining 36 years.

Land Of Opportunity

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

You still hear it plenty of times — there is no chance in this land any more for the young fellow just starting out. And they also say that you have to have money to make money. But the facts certainly dispel such notions as these. In Nebraska, for instance, new business incorporations for the first seven months of the year have run 72 per cent ahead of last year.

These seven months have brought 700 such new businesses as compared to 406 for the same period a year age. While many of them may never amount to much, the past is full of inconspicuous business beginnings and auspicious endings. Offhand, on can think of such operations as Cushmans, a product of the Amen family, and Gordon-Morgan Machine Co. in Havelock, a product of two young men who started with little more than an idea and lots of ambition, and now ship goods all over the country. Herbert Bros. Construction Co. is the name of a building firm started by two young men with little to go on but hard work and honesty, but it is a firm which today can be classed as highly successful. And everybody is familiar with the Behlen Manufacturing Co. of Columbus, another big firm today which stemmed from a small and obscure beginning.

Just To Name A Few

And there are a host of other people who have gone out on their own and made the grade on both smaller and larger scales. You find them in the hardware, grocery, service station and novelty business. You find them, in fact, in just about any and all kinds of activities.

Just the other day, the talented Associated Press writer, Hal Boyle, told the story of a man who gave up a $24,000-a-year job to go his own way in pursuit of an idea, above all things, for distributing free samples for cosmetic and toiletry companies.

But the fellow wasn't as nuts as it might appear. It seems as though these many firms were wasting their samples by sending them to itinerants, the needy and others who requested them but who would never become paying customers. This fellow got the samples into the hands of good potential buyers. In fact, he even sells sample cases of products to hotels, etc. for distribution to their customers as gifts.

He is reported to be making twice as much today as he was when he quit his regular job. He nearly starved to death a couple of times and experienced a few near financial business disasters but he made his idea pay off in the end. The Wall Street Journal recently told of a fellow who started out with $50 in his pocket. Just out of college, he concentrated on stocks and bonds and today is worth more than $2 million.

And so it goes. If you could find all the success stories that are in existence today, their number and their character would amaze you. The big industries of the nation are constantly cashing in on new ideas and approaches such as might start a man on the road to fame and fortune.

The last bottle of aspirins purchased for the household were not tablets, but a liquid. This, of course, makes the medicine much easier to administer to a child. But that wasn't the big thing about this drug. The big thing was the package itself which makes it impossible for the child to accidentally get hold of the bottle and drink all of the contents.

The lid of the bottle can be unscrewed but inside the bottle is a plastic ball, the same weight as the liquid. When the bottle cap is off and the bottle turned upside down, the ball rests itself in the opening of bottle. The opening is thus plugged and none of the liquid will pour out, even with vigorous shaking. The only way to get the liquid out is with an eye dropper and the child old enough to know how to use that and figure the whole deal out should be old enough to know better than to drink the aspirin. It is a simple idea but it may have made a fortune for some penniless individual who thought of it.

Effective In Simplicity

Of course, not all is sweetness and light in this new business activity. The Wall Street Journal also reports 263 business failures in the nation during last week, down from the 269 the week before and from 272 in the same week last year. There have been 9,516 failures in the year to date. That should be enough caution to keep you from telling off the boss today but there should be enough on the other side to keep you thinking that, some day, your ship may come in, too.

Off To Good Start

New Nebraska State Penitentiary Warden Maurice Sigler has gotten off to a good start in the operation of the sometimes difficult institution entrusted to his care. This he has done with the inauguration of a new orientation program for incoming prisoners and an institutional parole setup. Both of these things have been in operation in the past but on a much more limited scale than Sigler now plans.

And they would seem to be two of the most needed parts of prison operation. They are on a par with the other two elements of prison operation—physical plant and daily work programs. A man entering prison is no different from an individual entering upon any completely different way of life. He can get off to a good or bad start.

While much of the start he makes depends upon himself, it would be a mistake to believe that the institution itself and its officers do not play an important role in this difficult and important adjustment. No less important is the day the prisoner leaves the institution for another chance at freedom. Here, too, the burden of responsibility rests with the individual involved but this alone would spell nothing but disaster.

Without proper orientation in the one case and proper parole provisions in the other, society is the loser as well as the inmate involved. Without either of these programs, the period of incarceration will be longer and the chance of rehabilitation that much less. This means additional direct tax costs plus the loss of potential tax income on the earning power of one individual.

Warden Sigler is to be complimented on this action and encouraged to seek more answers to the problems faced in the operation of the Penitentiary. It is hoped, particularly, that he stays alert to the weaknesses of physical plant inadequacies. The lack of proper space for the housing and care of prisoners is an acute problem in the federal prison system and in many state institutions. It is one which is most difficult to solve in an advanced stage and one Nebraska would want to avoid to the best of its ability.

The Price Of Degradation

A young Nebraska regular Army captain recently received his first assignment to Asiatic duty.

He is not an unlettered young man. A mature interest in sociology prepared him well for drawing room discussions of the varying problems of society over the world. A thorough briefing by the military prepared him as well as books and lectures can on what to expect when he went overseas.

But books can never convey the true depth of any human problem.

A few weeks are not enough to steel an enlightened young man to what he somehow must learn to live with. The wretchedness of Asia's teeming millions appalled him.

He wrote back, "I never saw such poverty and filth in my life nor so much indifference to anything not directly concerned to day-to-day survival."

The young captain wrote of mass prostitution which rushes at army establishments with a desperation which washes against the guarded camps like the storm tossed waves of the sea.

"It is not a moral matter here, but a problem in survival, a bite to eat, a few moments of shelter; just anything to get to tomorrow. It is a sickening sight because if the average male has little or nothing, the female has less."

In it one gets a shocking realization of what happens to a society when the rank and file don't count.

How to change it? The young captain does not know. There seems to be no place to start.

Political education has no interest for those whose chief concern is to stay alive. Anything is all right if it grants a cotton coat and a crust of bread. That alone is enough to die for.

It is a monstrous thought to reflect that most of the world's millions live so wretchedly, whose betterment is a superhuman task, but whose existence is society's gravest danger.

If the enlightened West owes its success to any one thing it is in the acceptance that one is his brother's keeper and that the welfare of the individual is greater than anything else. That seems to be our secret. All the rest appears to be the rewards which stem from it.

Facts Are Facts

It just must be a fact—one-story construction is cheaper than multiple-story construction. At least, it is going to be hard to argue to the contrary in view of the report made by Superintendent of Schools Dr. Steven N. Watkins. The one-story Culler school, having the same square-foot space as multiple-story Dawes school, cost 10 cents less per square foot to build, Watkins has reported.

Also, he said, the Culler heating cost has been $75 less than at Dawes. Dr. Watkins knows what he is talking about in this matter because he is paying the bills. In this report, he has dispelled an old theory which has been used many times to attack the Lincoln school system.

The system has been criticized for spending money on what has become known as ranch style type of construction. In this, the building is spread out to provide more space rather than extended upward by a multiple of stories. It is assumed that the Culler and Dawes comparison is equal insofar as the quality of construction and land costs are concerned.

There are still builders who maintain that in home construction. the less expensive method is to go up rather than out. But they evidently are wrong or school and home construction are a long way apart. Dr. Watkins has the prevailing architectural opinion on his side. It may be a hard fact to accept, a little like finding out there is no Santa Claus, but facts are facts and we have to live with them.

Sen. Hill Blocks Education Measure

WASHINGTON — Sen. Lister Hill of Alabama has served in Congress more than one-third of a century —15 years in the House of Representatives and 21 years in the Senate. He is charming, urbane, able. And having once served as Senate majority leader during the Fair Deal he is regarded as a liberal.

The other day, however, Senator Hill as chairman of the Senate Labor and Education Committee faced a polite but vigorous rebellion from Senate liberals. In a closed-door session they protested that Lister was blocking some of the most essential legislation for the nation —education, fair labor standards, and prevention of juvenile delinquency.

☆ ☆ ☆

"The Senate is about to adjourn," Sen. Joe Clark of Philadelphia quietly began the revolt. "And yet we have done nothing about passing an education bill. There could be no more dire need, even affecting the security of our country, than to improve education. I was greatly impressed by the statement of Admiral Rickover when he came back from Moscow, that the United States may be lagging behind Russia in education. Yet we are about to recess with no action on education.

"I'm sure, Mr. Chairman, that you know we have a high regard for your influence both in the committee and as a leader of the Senate," continued Clark. "But I beseech the chairman to move on the education bill."

Senator Hill urbanely observed that there was nothing before the committee. The education bill was in subcommittee.

"I am sure the chairman can use his influence to get action in the subcommittee," said the senator from Pennsylvania. "In fact I've spoken to Senator Murray, chairman of the subcommittee, and I know he will cooperate."

☆ ☆ ☆

Clark was being ultra-diplomatic. He knew that Senator Hill was a member of the subcommittee and had actually refused to vote for the education bill. He also knew that Hill had posed as a great champion of better education, listing himself as having studied at Starke University School in Alabama, the University of Alabama, Columbia University, with honorary degrees from Alabama Polytechnic, National University, Woman's Medical College of Pennsylvania, Hahnemann Medical College. Yet the senator from Alabama was discreetly and vigorously blocking the education bill in subcommittee.

"I want to associate myself completely with the senator from Pennsylvania," spoke up Wayne Morse of Oregon. "All we are asking is that this committee have a right to vote on education."

The senator from Alabama hemmed, hawed, and spoke in his most charming manner—about nothing. It was obvious he was not going to do anything about promoting education.

Germany Rolls Out Red Carpet For Ike

BONN — The soft Rhineland dusk overtook the Eisenhower cavalcade before it reached the American embassy, but the American President still could read the big, bold signs: "Germany Trusts Eisenhower." Many others, some obviously homemade, had been saying the same things in different ways all along the long, slow ride from Wahn airport through narrow streets choked with people.

These are, after all, the men, women and children whose future lies on the bargaining tables at Geneva, London, Paris and, very soon, in Washington and Moscow. The President has made promises to them in the name of the American nation, but their poker-faced old chancellor, who has personally seen some of history's ashcans and not too very long ago temporarily occupied one, is alarmed by the Eisenhower-Khrushchev travels.

That is why the great Boeing 707, one of the newest symbols of the shrinking world, floated lazily to a perfect landing in front of the assembled dignitaries, who have directed Germany's remarkable recovery, and President Eisenhower stepped out with a smile and fair words for them.

Nobody said anything very remarkable, but it was nonetheless a remarkable occasion, heavy with the weight of history still to come. It seems to some observers that the President, who is often provoked to emotional excess by crowds, was restrained in his words of greeting. He did repeat the pledge to stand by Berlin and his handshake was cordial, his smile sunny.

Truth or myth, the chancellor's position is well known. He is trying to bring West Germany into a military and economic alliance with France and other smaller nations of Europe. He sees this as the channel for his country's energies and as insurance against a new generation of demagogues and military adventurers.

☆ ☆ ☆

What today's extraordinary reception for the recent conqueror amounted to in essence was an appeal for continued protection against the Russians until the new order could be firmly cemented into the thinking and the habits of Western Europeans and especially the Germans, who have only such voice as the Western allies or the Communist masters of the east now choose to give them.

At 83, the chancellor seems little changed from the dark postwar days when he toiled long hours to establish the West German republic. But actually he does less work and becomes more arbitrary, even capricious.

Yet for the question of "after Adenauer, what?" not even the experts who spend all their time here are ready with an answer.

THE NEIGHBORS SAY

An Invitation To Mr. K.

By MONA B. PARKER

There was an odoriferous postscript to the Albion News to the trip from which the Jack Loughs have just returned. Mrs. L. left a few things in the freezing compartment of their refrigerator. Just as she left, she turned the switch to what she thought was higher, but which was really "off." The frozen things thawed and ran down "through all the seams into the insulation and all the nooks and crannies." Good neighbors scrubbed up as best they could, but even at that, a job remains for the repair man to tear the box apart and reinsulate.

Meanwhile, the poor mother is the target of dirty looks and unkind remarks from her family. She has concluded they do not love her for herself alone.

"Am I nothing more than a chef to them? And to think I might never have known but for the flick of a dial!"

☆ ☆ ☆

Some neighbors of the Lester Eastwoods in Pawnee County took on the care of four grandchildren and the milking of eight extra cows for relatives who were vacationing. A busy and hectic week resulted . . .

Mrs. Eastwood, writing in the Republican, struck a bright note, however . . .

"It might have been worse if there had been eight grandchildren and only four cows.

☆ ☆ ☆

A Morrill rancher has issued an invitation to the Russian premier to visit his North Platte Valley and see how former Russians are "living and liking the American way of life."

Dave Grasmick, Russian-born, thinks Mr. K. should see an American-type ranch, not "a Texas oil-producing ranch or one of the empire type."

The Morrill farmer-rancher wants to talk peace on the common man's level with Mr. Khrushchev. He also would like an aswer to what his uncle is doing in Siberia.

☆ ☆ ☆

Norris Afred drafts a guest "Polker" occasionally to fill his personal column in the Polk Progress. A brother-in-law, visiting from New Orleans, took over recently, and used part of his space to explain a situation that has developed concerning his part of the country . . .

"It used to be when people from our state went traveling, strangers asked about the Mardi Gras and the Cajun people, but now nobody wants to hear about anything but Gov. Long's latest didos."

He reports further that one newsman down thataway suggests that if the U.S. government is bringing Khrushchev over here so he will understand the American people better, they better keep him out of Louisiana.

The ultimate has been reached in trading stamp dispersal, as far as Art Henrickson of the Western Nebraska Observer is concerned. The Kimball newsman has discovered that churches are giving them now. He doesn't know whether the ushers tear out the stamps per each dime dropped in the collection plate, but he's heard it has boosted attendance noticeably. "Wonder how many books of stamps it takes to get to heaven?" he muses.

Brevity in letters is requested, but length in itself will have no bearing on publication. Writers are advised that needless detail and repetitious matter will be edited out of letters. Too frequent contributions from one person on the same subject may be rejected. All letters must be accompanied by writer's true name, but may be submitted for publication under a pen name or initials. However, letters will be printed under a pen name or initials only at the editor's discretion.

Preparedness

Howells, Neb.

The earthquake in Montana was startling and unpredicted. It taught us that other calamities can descend in a flash, too. War could strike while we sleep — today, during Khrushchev's fateful sojourn in our country, or in a trice thereafter. Remember how Japan was yakking peace while its minions were loading powder for the Pearl Harbor kill? It hurts me to check the score on the following, but war is sure to come. History tells us that not in one case did an armament race end up in anything other than death-dealing conflict. Remains only directives as to when and in what pattern.

Civil Defense is stirring at long last. That could well mean that a cue has been given that this is the eleventh hour. But let us not get panicky. Logic is always on the side of longevity for mankind. We can bet our boots that the foe won't use an A-strike at random, for the fall-out would affect the perpetrators themselves. But they, with precision and sly economy, will sting us in the sensitive spots and condition us to meekly follow their beckonings on to eternity.

We must prepare ourselves. First, from every home flagpole we must flaunt the Stars and Stripes. Second, it should behoove editors to stuff their columns with the doings and sayings of our Franklins, Masons, Patrick Henrys, and Paul Reveres at the time democracy was founded. No matter where they look, the detested visitors will have to face a barricade of truth and high principle and that which is within our hearts. Last but not least, there should be constructed sturdy A-shelters at once. Uncle Sam will have literature for the details.

They can and probably will aim to paralyze us, as we might to them, without directly harming a hair on a head. There are a dozen ways.

Safety Program

Lincoln, Neb.

When is this country, and particularly Nebraska which concerns us more closely, ever going to learn that all the safety slogans and new promotion ideas for getting it across to people that they need to drive more carefully are never going to do the slightest bit of good? Editors keep on writing editorial after editorial, pointing out the number of highway fatalities and imploring the readers to please be careful. Safety councils issue volumes of literature, catch phrases and such are flashed on the television screen and over the radio, posters are put up there, and what happens. The grim total goes up and up.

The editorial theme has now been worn threadbare from repetition. The sad truth is that people have to be protected from themselves. There seems to be a basic stupidity in each of us that tells us we are favored ones set apart from the crowd. The only answer is a do-something program, and that means legislation of a constructive kind. Motor vehicles themselves have got to be cut down to speed size before they are placed in the hands of an unwise driving public. And strict legislation has to take it up from there.

Khrushchev Visit

Lincoln, Neb.

We read in The Star recently that 46 members of the Presbyterian Church at Firth, Nebraska, sent a petition to Sen. Roman Hruska asking that the visit of Khrushchev be cancelled. We need other churches to do likewise. I appeal especially to the Methodist Church which lately thought it would be wise to take China into the United Nations. When we start playing politics with men whose consciences are dead. we need not think they are going to play fair.

Nixon in his speech at Moscow said that "Khrushchev worked his way up." Let's look at history lest we be taken in. Khrushchev first appeared in history as a Communist official of the Ukraine in the early 1930s, helping to direct the program of planned starvation which resulted in the death of five million Ukrainians.

In 1938 he was appointed Communist chief of the Ukraine. His task was to direct the great Ukrainian purge of that year. And we could go on from there to the present year of 1959. Are we to let this butcher ride down Constitutional Avenue with the President of our country among flags of the hammer and sickle?

Oil and water don't mix. Neither do Christianity and atheistic Communism.

Prefers The South

McCool Junction, Neb.

Regarding the editorial, "We Can Take It," in the August 25 Star, I can't agree with you. If you consider Atlanta, Ga., Dixie, you are wrong. I just came back from Atlanta — was there four days, August 14 to August 18 — and I found it much more pleasant than here or Chicago, either. We came into Omaha the evening of August 18, at 6:43 p.m., to be exact, and the heat was terrible. I am sure I could smell the stockyards odor at the airport when we got off the plane. A southwest wind was blowing and I never ran into anything to compare with it in Atlanta.

I believe you should make a trip to the South in August to get a true comparison. I will admit I was surprised, as I had never been South in August before. And another surprise was the fact that there were no bugs or insects around the lights at night.

OFF THE RECORD — By Ed. Reed

Chiang Calls For Action To Meet Laos Threat

Taipei (UPI) — Chinese Nationalist President Chiang Kai-shek and Premier Chen Cheng called on the free nations of southeast Asia to take collective action to halt the Communist threat to Laos while there still was time.

Chiang warned that if Laos fell to the Communists, "The same fate will overtake all southeast Asian nations, and very quickly, too."

Chiang's heir apparent, Chen, said if the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO) was prepared to meet the Laotian crisis, war would be averted in the area. SEATO should "take action now, while there is still time," he said.

Chen said the Laotian crisis confronted the United States with "a crucial test" of its leadership in Asia.

"If the United States sits idly by, then the other states in southeast Asia will gradually fall to the Communists," Chen said.

"The United States should express a clear-cut attitude and make no ambiguous statements."

Chen said Laos required American military equipment but could fight without American troops.

The U.S. State Department announced earlier it would give Laos more money and equipment to permit temporary increases in the royal army and local militia units.

"Nationalist China and Thailand, Laos' neighbor, certainly do not want to see American boys lose blood there," Chen said. "There is no need for Americans to fight. They only need to supply equipment."

The Laotian rebels were "equipped by the Communists and the Russians," Chen charged. "So if Laos suffers the effect will be felt not only in Laos but in Tahiland and southeast Asia . . . we must not sit idly by while Laos falls. I hope the free nations will unite their efforts."

Keating Says Khrushchev Is Calling Plays

. . . In Laos Attacks

Washington (UPI) — Sen. Kenneth B. Keating (R-N.Y.) charged that Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev has been "calling the signals" for Communist rebel attacks in Laos.

He told the Senate Khrushchev was insulting the free world's intelligence if he thought he could come to this country and talk peace while directing the Red uprising in the strategically situated southeast Asian nation.

Some U.S. officials believe if Khrushchev is not actually behind the Laotian attacks, he could at least call them off if he wanted to.

To Discredit?

Another school believes Red China is behind the fighting in Laos in a maneuver to discredit Khrushchev's U.S. tour, which it never favored.

Keating said Khrushchev has the power to stop the Communists attacks in Laos but he said the Reds are using "the same old trick that the Communist Chinese used in Korea—maintaining an invasion of forces controlled from Moscow is a 'civil war'."

He said Khrushchev's "record" should be kept in mind when President Eisenhower sits down to talk with him.

Pen Hires Technician For X-Ray

Max Baskins of 3625 Mohawk, X-ray technician for state and federal government since 1920 and now retired, will become X-ray technician on a part-time basis at the State Penitentiary Sept. 1.

Baskins will initiate a new practice of X-raying all incoming inmates with an X-ray machine recently transferred to the institution. Inmates will also be X-rayed upon release, according to pen officials.

Both penitentiary and reformatory inmates will be examined at the pen, the officials said.

Tubercular inmates are isolated in a special ward at the penitentiary until they can be taken to the Kearney Tuberculosis hospital.

Baskins' experience as a government X-ray technician includes years spent at Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, D.C., from 1920-23 and the Omaha veteran's regional office from 1923-30.

He was chief X-ray technician at the Lincoln Veteran's Hospital from 1930-58.

NORTH PLATTE BOY BATTLING HERE TO REGAIN USE OF ARMS

A 12-year-old North Platte boy has undergone surgery at the Orthopedic Hospital here in his continuing fight to regain the use of his left arm, badly burned in a farm explosion June 12.

Jerol Miller, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Miller of North Platte, suffered first, second and third degree burns over most of his body when a gas can exploded as he was refueling a tractor.

As a result of the burns, the boy cannot move his left arm, and can move his right arm only a couple of inches.

Dr. Floyd A. Alcorn, superintendent of the Orthopedic Hospital, said that the lad's operation was the first of a series of skin graftings.

"The boy is coming along fairly well," Dr. Alcorn said, "but he'll be hospitalized here for about 6 months."

New Driver's Licenses Can Be Applied For Beginning Tuesday

Lancaster County drivers may start applying for their new driver's licenses next Tuesday, according to County License Bureau Chief Ralph Saathoff.

Saathoff, noting that all Nebraska driver's licenses expire Sept. 1 (Tuesday), said that license applications may be made either in person or by mail.

Probationary licenses for youths 16 through 19 cost $1.50 and they are good for one year. Regular licenses for all other persons cost $2 and are valid for two years.

How To Mail

Saathoff said persons who wish to send in for their licenses should address their letters to the County License Bureau at the Courthouse. He said mail applicants must include a self-addressed and stamped envelope and their old license.

Checks will be accepted only on Lancaster County banks and should be made payable to County Treasurer C. E. Berg.

Saathoff estimated his office will issue more than 71,000 new licenses during the renewal period, which ends Oct. 30.

Saathoff said persons who have moved should correct their address on their old license.

He said the new licenses will contain a space in which the driver may write in his blood type if he so desires. His office, he said, will not fill in this information.

Record Entries In Dairy Shows

Entries at the 8 district dairy shows this year set a record of 1,200 animals.

The previous high was in 1957 when 1,183 animals were exhibited. C. W. Nibler, extension dairyman at the University of Nebraska, said.

In 1946 when the first district dairy shows were organized, 346 animals were entered.

No Progress

Chicago (AP) — Representatives of unions and major meat packers resumed contract negotiations Thursday. Both sides reported no progress.

DROPPING OF ALLIANCE TRAINS WOULDN'T DELAY MAIL

Mail service between Lincoln and Alliance would be virtually unaffected by the discontinuance of Burlington trains 41 and 44 under the railroad's proposed plan to substitute truck service on a comparable schedule, if the trains are dropped.

A Regional Postal official at Wichita, Kan., said Thursday that Burlington and postal officials have discussed future mail service by truck routes.

The Burlington has proposed that mail service, now provided by trains 41 and 44, would be handled by trucks.

Visiting Cities

Meanwhile, a Burlington official is visiting 39 Nebraska cities served by these trains before the filing of an application to discontinue the train service.

The regional postal official said that truck service on a comparable schedule would provide satisfactory mail schedules.

Gerald Jones, Lincoln Post Office superintendent of mails, agreed that "Lincoln-Alliance mail service would not be hurt in the least if comparable truck schedules were substituted."

Train 41 leaves Lincoln at 7 p.m. and arrives in Alliance at 4 a.m.; train 44 leaves Alliance at 11 a.m. and arrives in Lincoln at 8 p.m.

The Burlington proposes two truck routes leaving Lincoln at 7 p.m., one dispatching mail locally between Lincoln and a point near Ravenna, while the other would service stations west of Ravenna to Alliance.

One Train

If trains 41 and 44 were dropped, the Alliance-Lincoln route would be served with only one passenger train with daily connections.

Train 42, eastbound to Lincoln, departs from Alliance at 11:10 p.m. and arrives in Lincoln at 7 a.m.; westbound train 43 leaves Lincoln at 12:25 p.m., arriving in Alliance at 6:30 a.m.

Burlington officials said freight would be switched to these trains. A Lincoln postal official noted these trains also handle preferential mail.

Reed Monk Found Dead

Funeral services for Reed D. Monk, 39, of 6844 Fremont, who died Wednesday will be 10 a.m. Saturday at Umbergers Chapel, the Rev. Edgar P. Schmidt officiating. Burial will be in Lincoln Memorial Park.

Mr. Monk's body was found hanging from a tree in a field about one mile north of U.S. 34 and 9 miles east of Lincoln. He was last seen Wednesday morning and county lawmen had been searching for him.

Dep. Sheriff Del Zieman, acting coroner, said the 39-year-old man apparently took his own life.

His car was found about 6:30 a.m. Thursday by a relative who was searching for him in the area. Lawmen were called to the scene and about two hours later the body was discovered.

An employe of the Burlington Railroad, Mr. Monk was a native of Bennet. He was a member of the Faith Lutheran Church and had been a YMCA club leader.

He had lived in Lincoln for about 5 years. Survivors include his wife, Gertrude; daughter, Janice Jane; son, Terry; brother, Russell of Lincoln; sister, Mrs. Lenore Smith, Wilmington, Del.; and his mother, Mrs. Nellie Monk of Lincoln.

3 Railroads Complete Assessment Appeals

Three of the larger railroads operating in Nebraska Thursday completed appeals to the State Supreme Court of 1959 assessments for taxation by the State Board of Equalization.

The assessments of the railroads this year by the state board erupted into one of the biggest political battles that faced the board.

Democratic members Governor Brooks and Treasurer Richard Larsen voted the use of last year's formula to assess the railroads.

Republicans mustered one vote to oppose this after Tax Commissioner Fred Herrington disqualified himself and Secretary of State Frank Marsh did not attend the meeting. Auditor Ray Johnson cast the lone vote against the assessment.

Proposed Different Formula

Instead he had proposed a different formula which would have cut the assessed valuation.

Appeal to the supreme court and transcript of the board's proceedings were filed by Union Pacific, Burlington and the Chicago and North Western Railroads.

On July 28 the board denied the protests of the railroads to the valuation and the railroads a short time later filed notices of intent to appeal the board's action.

Union Pacific said in its appeal it should have been assessed at $50,616,899 instead of the $70,015,144 figure set by the board.

Burlington said its assessment should have been $38,621,807 instead of the $52,744,745 set by the board.

The Chicago and North Western said it ought to have been assessed at $3,722,170 instead of the $7,065,725 figure of the board.

Fremont Rental Firm Files To Incorporate

Articles of incorporation have been filed by the Equity Rentals, Inc., of Fremont, the Nebraska secretary of state's office reported Thursday.

Incorporators were Wesely Dunn, B. T. Schafersman, and Lawrence H. Yost, all of Fremont. The firm is authorized to issue $100,000 in capital stock.

Other filings:

McMurty Land and Cattle Co., Nenzel (Cherry County); Erba McMurtrey and Alice Muriel McMurtey, both of Nenzel, $100,000.

Arthur and Dora Bingel Foundation, Inc., Omaha, a non-profit group devoted to senior citizens; Donald J. Bucholz, Everett C. Pilcher, James A. Irving, Frederick T. Bucholz and Arthur W. Larsen, all of Omaha.

Lyman Ag. Club, Lyman, non-profit; E. D. Sommers, Leroy Rohrick, F. H. Young, P. C. Lackey and James Pittman, all of Lyman.

Omaha Moves To Dismiss Appeal Against Anania

The City of Omaha Thursday filed a motion to dismiss a Supreme Court appeal against Patrolman Ferdinand Anania, dismissed from the force in 1958 and later ordered reinstated by the district court for Douglas County.

Anania was charged in February, 1958, by Omaha Police Chief C. Harold Ostler with conduct unbecoming an officer. Anania was dismissed after a hearing Feb. 12, 1958, and the personnel board of the City of Omaha upheld the action.

Anania appealed to the district court for Douglas County and after a trial Oct. 13, 1958, the court reversed the action of the personnel board and ordered Anania restored to duty.

The city appealed to the Supreme Court after a motion for a new trial in district court was overruled.

Former Coed Is Bride

MRS. JOSEPH H. BADAMI

Against a background of cathedral candles and arrangements of yellow and bronze chrysanthemums, the marriage of Miss Joyce Ellen Brigham, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. R. J. Brigham, to Joseph H. Badami, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Badami of Omaha, took place at the Grace Methodist Church on Thursday evening, Aug. 27. The 7:30 o'clock ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. M. R. Willis.

Miss Elizabeth Carpender of New York City, the maid of honor; and bridesmaids Mrs. William A. Fraser, Mrs. Dennis Witt, Miss Joan Brandeberry, and Miss Mary Ann Lammers of Lexington, were costumed alike in Circe white parchment silk.

Gerald Karlin of Columbus served as best man, and the ushers included Douglas Durbin, David Sobeski, Joseph Gillotte, all of Omaha; Dennis Witt, R. C. Baker and R. M. Brigham of Rockford, Ill.

The bride appeared in a gown of white silk organza ornamented with re-embroidered Alencon lace The lace fashioned the brief sleeves and contoured the cameo neckline of the Empire bodice, and above the bouffant circular skirt which ended in a cotillion train, the narrow waist was sashed with taffeta. A crown of pearls held to the head her illusion veil.

Upon their return from a honeymoon trip to the Broadmoor Hotel in Colorado Springs, Mr. Badami and his bride will reside at 2020 Smith St.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Chi Omega sorority, and this year will be a member of the Lincoln public schools faculty. Mr. Badami attended Omaha University and the University of Nebraska where he is preparing for entrance into the University of Nebraska College of Law.

THE SOCIAL HORIZON IS ROSY

—Looming up is the big picture of the immediate future, rush week, which begins on Tuesday and will have an hysterical ending a week from Saturday evening—

The current week end, however, is not without its activity and it is safe to say that the major portion of it involves processional aisles on Sunday—and prenuptial dinners on Saturday evening.

* * *

—Mr. and Mrs. Milton Beechner, for instance, will honor their daughter, Miss Dorothy Beechner, and her fiance, John Richard Mapes, when they preside at dinner on Saturday evening at Hotel Cornhusker.

Dinner places will be arranged for 50, and the guest list will include members of the family, the bridal party and out of town guests.

* * *

—Also entertaining at dinner on Saturday evening at Hotel Cornhusker will be Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Reed of Barrington, Ill., when they entertain in prenuptial courtesy to their daughter, Miss Nancy Lee Reed, and Donley Henning whose marriage will take place on Sunday afternoon. The 35 guests will include members of the families and the bridal party.

* * *

—Today ends the women's golf tournament at the Lincoln Country Club as far as play is concerned. But the tournament festivities have been delayed until Tuesday when the LCC feminine golfers will be hostesses at a Stagette.

The affair, to which guests may be invited, will begin at 1 o'clock and after a full afternoon on the golf course the group will remain at the club for dinner—and to award the trophies to the tournament winner.

* * *

—But we must turn back to things bridal for a moment or two—As you know the wedding of Miss Ann Truman and Roderic J. O'Donnell will take place on Saturday, and complimenting her daughter and Mr. O'Donnell this evening will be Mrs. E. W. Truman who will be a dinner hostess at the Lincoln Country Club.

The bridal party will be seated at one table, and at another table will be Mrs. Truman and the out of town guests from California, and from Columbus.

* * *

—On Thursday Mrs. Truman honored the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Reynolds J. O'Donnell of Los Angeles when she entertained at an 11 o'clock brunch at the Lincoln Country Club.

And on Thursday evening Mrs. O'Donnell entertained at a canape supper at the University Club, honoring her son and Miss Truman.

* * *

—Someone told us that Miss Kathy Roach, a senior at the University of Nebraska, is due to arrive in Lincoln Monday evening after spending six weeks in Istanbul, Turkey where she was a counselor at the International YWCA camp on the Mediterranean. Miss Roach was one of six chosen from the United States to participate in the camp program, and was one of two sent to Istanbul. En route to Turkey Miss Roach spent a few days in Geneva, Switzerland where she was a guest at the international YWCA headquarters. The traveler left Istanbul on Aug. 16, and since then has spent some time in Rome and Athens.

She flies to New York on Monday, and will come directly to Lincoln.

On Tuesday our coed will resume her duties as president of Chi Omega sorority.

Dear Abby . . .

Need A Refresher Course!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have spent 25 years learning how to get along with my neighbors but these people from Europe who are flooding the U.S. really throw me.

They say our children are "gangsters" and that our schools teach nothing. These immigrants all graduated from colleges (in Europe, of course) and everything was better there than it is here. It's impossible to win an argument with them.

I wish I were head of the U.S. IMMIGRATION DEPT. for one day! You're an American girl, Abby. Give me a defense. BOTHERED

DEAR BOTHERED: I am an American only because my forebears migrated to this country—and so are you (unless you happen to be a full-blooded American Indian.)

May I quote the message on our Statue of Liberty: "Give me your tired, your poor, your huddled masses, yearning to breathe free. The wretched refuse of your teeming shore, send these, the homeless, tempest-tost to me, I lift my lamp beside the golden door!"

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: My niece is getting married and we got an invitation to the wedding. My daughter, who is 16, also got one. Our son, who is 12, was not invited. I felt bad about this and called my niece and asked if our son could come.

She said she was sorry but no children under 14 were invited as she had to draw the line somewhere. I can't go and leave the boy home alone, so I told her none of us was coming. My daughter is upset because she wants to go. Did I do right? And if we all stay home do I still owe the bride a gift? AUNT E.

DEAR AUNT: You were wrong in punishing your daughter because your son was not invited. (Surely he can stay with a friend for a few hours?) "Drawing the line" is necessary and the bride's decision was not unreasonable. One never "owes" a gift, but under the circumstances I think you owe the bride an apology.

DEAR ABBY: I am an American sailor who has been married 16 months to a Spanish girl. Before we were married she was very affectionate and loving. Since our marriage she is a different girl. She has no affection for me at all. For almost a year we've been living like brother and sister. I am sure she has nobody else. What should I do? MAC

DEAR MAC: Your wife should definitely consult a doctor. Long time no "Si".

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: Please print this for unwed mothers who are undecided about whether to give their babies up for adoption. I had a baby out of wedlock, and was so mixed up I let them talk me into "selling" it. I was married a few years later, and my husband and I tried to get my baby back. We fought it in court and believe me, we went through plenty of money and misery, but we couldn't get her back. Girls, don't make the same mistake I did. Keep your baby and hope for the best.

ONE WHO KNOWS

CONFIDENTIAL TO MIXED UP": From your letter I would say that you are far from ready for marriage. No girl in this day and age accepts an engagement ring because it is "forced on her." Return the ring and tell him you want to think it over.

If you have a problem, write to Abigail Van Buren in care of this paper. She will be glad to answer your letter. For a personal reply, enclose a self-addressed envelope.

WHAT'S NEW IN SERVICE CIRCLES

By SYBIL WEBBER

The hottest news to emanate from the air base suburbia right now is the anticipated opening, Sept. 14, of the newly constructed General Arnold School located right smack in the middle of the new base housing addition.

Youngsters in the kindergarten through the sixth grade living on base will attend the new school, with the exception of those students planning to enroll in a parochial school. Let's face it Dad, homework time is just around the corner and I don't know about you, but things have changed a mite since some of us studied the "3-R's." Time to start dusting off the memory cells.

. . . meanwhile, back on the party front: learned that Col. and Mrs. J. O. Britt entertained with dinner for eleven guests on Aug. 22, at their quarters in Air Base Heights, or Cheli Terrace, or whatever they've named the streets lately. Smitty says she's been given so many address changes that she just lets the mailman figure it out nowadays.

. . . Mrs. Walter Morton joined Mrs. John Poweski and Mrs. Richard Hyman in town on Tuesday to co-hostess at a bridge-luncheon and surprise stork shower for Mrs. Robert Short at the Hotel Cornhusker Twelve guests were asked to attend.

. . . some of the wives from base housing invited their husbands to join them for dessert-bridge at Lt. Col. and Mrs. Walter E. Starck's in town recently when they gathered to bid adieu to Mrs. Lowell B. Fisher. Lue was presented with a gift of jewelry by the gals in the bridge group. The Fishers sold their home in Lincoln and moved, bag and baggage, to new quarters in Omaha, where they have been transferred.

. . . a block coffee was hostessed recently by Mrs. James Sweesy at her quarters on Hughes street. The morning gathering served to welcome Mrs. John S. Rogers to the neighborhood. W. O. and Mrs. Rogers have just moved to base housing from town.

. . . several wives from the base gathered at Mrs. A. A. Kumm's home in town Aug. 25, for a potluck luncheon and surprise party in compliment to Mrs. James Charroin.

The affair was cohostessed by Mrs. Donald Groves. The twelve guests presented the honoree with a farewell gift during the afternoon. S.Sgt. and Mrs. Charroin and their three boys will leave shortly for an overseas assignment to Germany.

. . . the base bid farewell this week to Chaplain (Major) A. E. K. Brenner, his charming wife, Trudy and son, Peter. The Brenners are en route to their new assignment at Hanscom Field, (Boston) Mass.

. . . Lt. Col. and Mrs. William E.Miller and their family have moved from town and are now occupying quarters in base housing.

. . . Miss Leslie McAuliffe, a charming addition to the teen set, flew in from Los Angeles on Wednesday to join her parents, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Richard McAuliffe. Dig this address, fellows — the McAuliffe quarters are at 3640 Michael, in base housing!

. . . M.Sgt. and Mrs. Harold Hawkins and their two youngsters, Jeff, 11 and Judy, 8, have moved to the base from town. They are occupying quarters on Hughes street.

. . . shades of Tom Sawyer! Major and Mrs. Robert Crooks and the youngsters, Lisa and Marc, were en route home from a visit with relatives in the great Smokies when they sighted a real honest to goodness river boat churning along somewhere in Kentucky. Kit, who confesses she's a bug on this historical stuff, chased the thing along the levee, or wherever river boats go these days, until she found where it had parked.

Filled with nostalgia, the Crooks boarded the old ship and learned that it was the last of its kind in operation. Each year it makes trips up the Ohio to Cincinnati and down to New Orleans and other points of interest. Well, all this was just too much for Kit, so the family had to make another visit (their third) to Mark Twain's home in Hannibal, Mo., so they could soak up some more river boat culture

Moscow, A City Of Women

Of the host of impressions an American traveler brings back from Russia, this one stands out: Moscow is a city of women.

"You see women everywhere. There are 10 women to every man. Women are clerks, street-car conductors, barbers. In our hotel, the only men around were two elevator operators."

The traveler speaking was Max Thal, president and founder of an American knitting firm, a sponsor of the fashion industries presentations at the American exhibit in Moscow, and the fair's largest fabrics exhibitor. Thal had just returned from seven days in Russia with his daughter, Astrid, 23, fashion coordinator for the firm.

"When I asked why there were no men in Moscow, they told me that during World War II, every family lost an average of two men," Thal said in an interview.

In spite of the great female population, Moscow has no facilities for women such as beauty shops, reducing salons, hat or dress shops.

Thal visited a knitting mill outside Moscow and brought back samples of fabrics used for women's blouses and lingerie. They included simple flower prints, stripes, and flocking. Most looked like inexpensive curtain material and were flimsy and unimaginative. Thal called them "40 years behind us."

At the fair, Russian women jammed the fabrics display, the fashion show, movies of American life, the model home and beauty salon. They wanted to feel everything to clip swatches of materials. Shoes exhibited were nailed down, but the sightseers ripped them up to see the soles.

One American girl had to take off her shoes in the subway to show the Russians her high, narrow heels. "The women were surprised that our shoes were so good looking and so cheap," Miss Thal said.

Most women were badly groomed and uncared for, she added. They were heavy and wore rayon prints which made the least expensive American dress look like high fashion. Few women wore make-up.

One Russian woman came back again and again to the fair's beauty salon before daring to have her hair styled, Miss Thal said. That hurdle over, she refused make-up until told it could be washed off.

After the make-up was applied the woman took one look at herself in a mirror and shrieked delightedly, "I'll never wash my face again!"

All in all, the Russians were "absolutely marvelous, they couldn't have been nicer," Miss Thal said.

"But you still can't help having a feeling of sadness about them. They're all very grim, living in a depressing city. And there's always this bit of fear."

McKneally New Head Of Legion

Accept 'With Dignity' Khrushchev's Visit

Minneapolis (AP) — The American Legion Thursday swept an eastern lawyer into office as its national commander and gave token support to Vice President Nixon's stand on Russian Premier Khrushchev's visit to the United States.

National convention delegates rallied behind Martin B. McKneally of Newburgh, N.Y., and elected him leader of the 2½ million member veterans' organization without opposition.

Martin B. McKneally ... named without opposition

The Legionnaires disposed of one of their most controversial issues by approving without debate a resolution to accept "with dignity" Khrushchev's visit.

The resolution was formulated at the last minute, two days after Nixon told convention delegates the Soviet Premier's visit might help avoid a misunderstanding that could lead to war.

A Turnabout

The resolution was substituted in committee for one opposing the Khrushchev visit. The move to accept the visit was a turnabout from last year's Legion convention which voted to oppose the visits of any Communist leaders.

McKneally, 44, had garnered the full support of the convention delegates in nearly a week of strenuous campaigning. No other candidates were nominated, and following speeches in his behalf, every Legion department paraded its banners through the crowded convention hall while the Nashville, Tenn., Legion band blared, "The Sidewalks of New York."

McKneally took command of the Legion from Preston J. Moore of Stillwater, Okla., then told the convention, "We live in gravely troubled times."

"We are engaged in a great struggle for the minds and souls of men, a struggle which will continue throughout our lifetime . . ."

Several Legionnaires, including Harry Colmery of Topeka, Kan., past national commander who helped adopt the resolution on Khrushchev, viewed the action as a gradual shift in thinking.

Backed By Johnson, Meany

This shift, some said, was helped along by the speeches of Nixon, Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex), Senate majority leader, and AFL-CIO President George Meany.

Johnson told the convention Americans must—and will—stand behind President Eisenhower in making Khrushchev's visit serve the nation's best interest.

Free World Can Meet Red Threat

. . . Dillon Says

Miami Beach, Fla (AP)—Undersecretary of State Douglas Dillon said Thursday the free world has both the military might and the will to meet the threat of Communist arms.

Dillon

For this reason, Dillon said the "frustrated" Reds are turning more and more to non-military methods of penetration aimed especially at underdeveloped countries.

The second ranking State Department official spoke in an address prepared for the American Bar Assn. convention.

Dillon endorsed the convention's emphasis on strengthening international law and indicated the government would help pay the cost of a proposed world conference of lawyers.

Better Respect Needed

"There is a pressing need to promote a better respect for the rule of law in international relations," he said. "I hope and trust that the proposed world conference will make real progress toward that goal."

As for the Communist threat, Dillon said:

"We and our allies have both the military might and the determination to meet the threat posed by military power in the hands of Communism's leaders.

"Frustrated by our strength and firmness of purpose, the Communists are turning more and more to economic, political and psychological penetration of the underdeveloped areas in order to achieve their goal of world domination . . ."

3 Killed In Wisconsin Cloudburst

. . . Heavy Flooding

By The Associated Press

Showers continued in southwestern Wisconsin on the heels of cloudbursts that caused flooding and three storm deaths.

A marathon heat wave kept a tight grip on parts of the midwest and east. Chicago sweltered through its 9th successive day of plus 90-degree heat.

The Wisconsin downpours caused severe flooding along the upper and middle Kickapoo River basin. An estimated 125 residents of Avalanche were evacuated before the town was covered by 8 to 9 feet of water.

Two-year-old Barbara Larson drowned after she was knocked from her father's arms in Avalanche. Her father, Harland, was hit by a floating log while fleeing the family's trailer home.

Pilot Dies

James Hamilton Jr., a pilot from Winnetka, Ill., was killed when his plane crashed near Cassville during a thunderstorm. Francis Kouba, 28, a Hillsboro farmer, was killed by lightning.

All creeks and streams tributary to the Kickapoo were expected to overflow their banks to a depth of 3 to 5 feet.

Showers or thunderstorms extended from the Ohio and Tennessee Valleys into the Virginias and from the western gulf states into the upper Mississippi Valley and Great Lakes region.

Occasional rain or showers were scattered from Washington into Montana.

NSEA Executive Committee To Study District Reorganization Plans

The executive committee of the Nebraska State Education Assn. is slated to consider proposals for reorganization of the NSEA's 6 districts at its next meeting.

The first try for reorganization of the Assn. ended in failure when local associations voted 59 to 45 in favor of changing the number of districts from 6 to 4. The proposal fell two votes short of the required 61 votes.

Acting Executive Secretary John Lynch mentioned possible plans at a recent NSEA leadership conference. They were:

—Retain the present district boundaries.

—Reorganize into 5 districts by combining districts 4 and 5.

—Retain the present district 4 and 5.

—Retain the present district boundaries but change the method of financing district conventions.

—Reorganize into 5 districts and change the method of financing district conventions.

—Provide district meetings and a state convention with districts 3, 4, 5 and 6 holding district conventions in the fall and districts 1 and 2 (Omaha and Lincoln) alternating between a district convention in the fall and a state convention in the spring.

NSEA officials pointed out, however, that these 5 suggestions are not necessarily the ones that will be presented to the executive committee.

If a reorganization plan is approved by the executive committee, it will then be submitted for a vote at the district conventions in the fall.

Capture Wanted North Platte Man

North Platte, Neb. (AP) — A man wanted in North Platte on charges of embezzling $435 from the Veterans of Foreign Wars Club has been captured in San Diego, Calif.

The sheriff's office said Kenneth Arthur Wise, alias Jack R. White, was to waive extradition.

Known here as Jack R. White, the man disappeared Aug. 10 and post officers said he took with him a week's receipts from the VFW Club, where he was manager and bartender.

Stanton Delaplane's POSTCARD

Normandy is the eating country of France. And we have been eating elegantly. Moules a la creme—they take these mussels and steam them in a rich bath of cream and butter and chopped shallots.

Each morning my teenage daughter puts on her Bermudas and lets out a horrid cry. (The times I have cut myself shaving over minor crises!)

"What is the matter?"

I sort of expect to find her hanging from a knotted noose on the chandelier. But no. She is only looking at herself in profile in the mirror.

"I can't wear Bermudas!"

"You are wearing Bermudas." That is logic. Logic only infuriates her.

"I mean I can't wear Bermudas because I am getting too big."

"Stop eating." That is more logic. Anyway, I am not worried. She does not look fat to me.

"Oh you, don't understand!" That is one of the tragedies that has come to us with our teens. Used to be I had quite a rapport with this child. But now, in my dotage, I am a shell of the man I was. No understanding. Apt to positively embarrass eevrybody with those loud shirts and—oh, well.

☆ ☆ ☆

Our problem is not only the moules a la creme — they come in this hot butter and cream, slightly open. You get a pair of the shells and use them like tongs to tong out the meat from the others.

Oh, yes. You save one empty shell, and now and again you scoop up a little of that rich soup and drink it. Heavenly days, yes.

What was I asying? Oh, the moules are not the only problem. There is the duck cooked on an open fire. It is drenched with a cream and orange sauce.

We also have a good deal of trouble with the fraises du bois—wild strawberries.

We are sure they are not fattening. But what do they do here but cover them with about two inches of cream Chantilly.

Most of the cooking in Normandy is done in cream. That is why we cannot wear Bermudas.

☆ ☆ ☆

We dine in a Norman courtyard. Shaded by Normandy apple trees. The sea lies 100 yards away.

We are living in Villerville, a few miles from the rich in Deauville.

We live at Chez Mahu. It rates a one-star restaurant with Michelin. High praise. Deauville itself has NO one-star restaurants. They have a four crossed fork-and-spoon restaurant nearby. But that is for elegance. Stars are for food.

We eat the big lunch under the apple trees. Then we nap. (And that doesn't help you reduce, believe me.)

In the evening we rise and look out the open French windows into the courtyard. Over the window box full of flowering petunias.

If things look lively below, we go down and join the fun.

Then we eat again.

"You can't help getting fat here," she moaned.

☆ ☆ ☆

Fat is not the problem. I have it from Denise, the pretty French girl who waits on our table.

"C'est la foie," she says sagely. "Watch out for the liver."

The French are greatly concerned with their livers. (Like we are with our stomachs.) Most of the bottle waters emphasize that they are better than Hadacol for the liver. Also les enfants. Children, I guess, must watch their livers, too.

With all this attention to livers, the French raise sand with their geese. Developing livers in them that would make a British Colonel beat the natives.

They take these geese and STUFF them with corn. The goose does not want the corn. "I'm stuffed," he says. says. "Couldn't eat another bite." They push the corn into him anyway.

This gives the goose a liver like a football. He even develops a liver temper. The French then stand him against the wall. Or hang him. Or something.

They take his liver and make pate de foie gras with truffles.

It is delicious before dinner. In the Norman courtyard. And we are so full of it, we are busting out of our Bermudas.

Reduction In Rail Rates Authorized

The State Railway Commission Thursday authorized the Burlington and Union Pacific Railroads to reduce rates on carload shipments of potatoes on minimum shipments of 40,000 pounds.

The lower rates apply also on seed potatoes from North Platte Valley stations to Cozad, Lexington, Kearney, Burwell, Sargent and other stations.

The authorization will expire May 31, 1960.

The Northwestern Bell Telephone Co., Omaha, was authorized to revise and expand its service and rate plan for the Omaha metropolitan area exchange effective upon completion of a service improvement program.

The Winter Flying Service, Gordon, was authorized to engage in interstate air commerce as a non-scheduled carrier.

The York County Rural Public Power District, York, was authorized to build an electric transmission line in York County.

Rural Electric Co., Pine Bluffs, Wyo., was authorized to build lines in Banner and Kimball Counties.

Tax On Imported Jet Fuel At 5c

The attorney general ruled Thursday that the tax on jet fuel imported by other than the government should be at the rate of five cents a gallon.

State Agriculture Director Pearle F. Finigan had requested a clarification of two tax laws, one dealing with the five cent aviation tax and the other the general motor fuel tax law which provides for a seven cent tax.

The seven-cent statute contains a provision which includes motor boats and aircraft.

But the attorney general said that where two statutes conflict, and where one is a general law and the other deals with a specific subject, then the specific law will prevail. He said the five cent tax is a specific subject law and prevails over the general seven cent tax law in the case of aircraft fuels.

Quarry Operators Seek Reversal In GageDamageSuit

The operators of a Gage County stone quarry filed a brief in supreme court Thursday asking reversal of the Gage County District Court decision in a damage suit brought by Gage County School District 162.

The district brought the action for damages to the school building charging that blasting operations in the stone quarry operated by Grosshans & Petersen, Inc., caused them.

A Gage County District Court jury awarded the school district $25,750 in damages.

Steel Negotiators Halt Talks Again

New York (UPI) — Steel wage negotiators broke off the talks until next Wednesday with no settlement of the 44-day strike in sight.

David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers Union, and R. Conrad Cooper, chief industry negotiator, announced jointly they had "not been successful in finding a basis for mutual accomodation."

There apparently had been no progress toward settling the dispute in off-and-on negotiations that began May 5. The strike by 500,000 steelworkers has cut off 85% of the nation's steel production.

No Ground

The statement indicated neither side had yet given ground on the main dispute. The union wants a 15-cent wage increase, while the 12 major steel firms have insisted on a "status quo" contract extension as an anti-inflation measure.

Joseph F. Finnegan, chief federal mediator, announced after the talks were broken off that McDonald and Cooper had informed him they needed time for "additional work . . . to evaluate and restudy their positions."

The continuation of the strike into September could lead to a severe steel shortage of proportions that might cause President Eisenhower to invoke the 80-day "cooling off" provisions of the Taft-Hartley law, if he felt a national emergency existed. Both sides have registered opposition to government intervention.

The temporary delay also meant that the strike could be the longest in the industry's history. This is the 6th post-war steel strike. The longest previous walkout was 55 days in 1952.

Puzzled Deputies Ponder Mystery Of Bumped Boy

Deputy sheriffs were trying Thursday to unravel the mystery of an 11-year-old Lincoln boy who was found lying semiconscious along U.S. 34 about 10 miles east of Lincoln late Wednesday night.

The boy, Eric Diegel of 2001 So. 13th, was found lying next to his bicycle on the road shoulder by a motorist from Grand Island. He notified lawmen and the boy was taken to a Lincoln hosiptal.

Deputies said the boy is suffering from bumps above the eye and on the back of the head. They said he told them this story:

Rode To 'Beach'

He left home after supper Wednesday to collect on his newspaper route. After collecting at several homes he rode his bicycle to Capitol Beach where he went on some of the rides.

He said he left the Beach about 8:30 p.m. and the last thing he remembers is riding out the Beach's State Street entrance on his bike. He said the next he knew he was being loaded into an ambulance on U.S. 34, at a point about 12 miles from the Beach.

Deputies said there was no indication that he was struck by a car and they could offer no explanation of the incident. Eric is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rumold Diegel.

Apple Thief

Durham, England (UPI) — The Rev. Mervin Shorthouse, 45, who accused 3 boys of stealing his apples, admitted that he had been a pretty good apple stealer himself as a boy.

"But unfortunately these boys were caught and I was never caught," he testified. The case was dismissed on a technicality.

Rains Hit Japan

Tokyo (UPI) — Torrential rains hit northern Japan after taking a heavy toll in central Japan. At least 14 persons were reported dead and 86 missing in flooded areas.

Biggest County Demo Festivity Since Bryan Seen

"The largest Democratic county get-together since the Bryan era" has been predicted for the Lancaster County Democratic Picnic Saturday by county chairman A. Clifford Anderson.

Anderson said that State Chairman Russell V. Hanson will attend the picnic, to be held at Capitol Beach at 4 p.m. Gov. Ralph G. Brooks will be the main speaker.

About 750 persons are expected to attend, "with favorable weather," Anderson said.

Face-Lifting For City Target Of Downtown Development

Downtown Development of Lincoln Inc. is "going to move forward in advocating a study and a plan to produce a new face in downtown Lincoln," according to Harry Krusz, manager of the group.

And a face-lifting of downtown Lincoln, Krusz said, would "perhaps include a permanent mall."

Kruscz reported to the DDC Thursday on his trip to visit newly-set-up malls in Toledo, O., and Kalamazoo, Mich.

"The members were highly encouraged by my report," he said.

Flow Normal

"Both malls seem to cause a minimum of obstruction to traffic flow and parking," Krusz reported. "Things continue to flow at a normal rate."

"The projects have generated strong public opinion in these two cities," Krusz noted, "and the people seem to like them."

The Kalamazoo mall is a two-block permanent structure, Krusz said. "And it has done a great deal to reactivate the downtown section," he added.

45-Day Trial

A temporary mall "similar to Lincoln's Centennial Mall" was set up in Todedo on a 45-day trial to "test public opinion and relation to downtown problems," Krusz continued.

Krusz said his tour was made at the suggestion of the executive committee of the DDC, which "is extremely interested in the mall proposal," Krusz noted.

"Everything that I learned in the process of touring these cities seems to be in favor of malls," he said. "City and county governments in these towns are actively behind the malls. Merchants and citizens are overwhelmingly in favor of a mall."

Forgives Them

Marengo, Ill. (UPI) — Dr. William V. Gooder forgave his deadbeat patients on his death bed, it was revealed.

Gooder, 78, died Aug. 10, leaving a will which said:

"Having practiced medicine and surgery in Marengo for 45 years, I hereby cancel and forgive all unpaid medical fees owed me by any and all former patients."

Gooder's lawyer estimated the doctor's patients owed at least $25,000.

Platte OKs New NPPS Power Rates, But CPPD Pact Waits

Lincoln Star Special

North Platte—Directors of the Platte Valley Public Power and Irrigation District Thursday approved a new rate schedule for Nebraska Public Power System customers, but held for further study a new contract with Consumers Public Power District.

Gerald Gentleman, general manager of the Platte District, said the Platte board joined with the Loup River Public Power District in approval of a new rate schedule which will increase rates an average of 1½% over the average paid last year.

With Platte's approval, the rates will automatically go into effect Sept. 1 and remain in force until Dec. 31, 1962.

Co-Owners

Loup and Platte are co-owners of the Nebraska Public Power System which provide wholesale power to most of the eastern two-thirds of Nebraska.

Gentleman said the Platte board devoted the entire Thursday afternoon session to studying a proposed contract with Consumers.

The board was "favorably impressed" with the proposed contract for Consumers, Gentleman said, but he added, "this is a big thing and we want to study it further."

He said he did not believe Platte's decision to hold up final approval would affect Consumers' board meeting scheduled Friday to consider the proposed contract.

By Sept. 10

The Platte board "may meet in a special session earlier," Gentleman said, but action on the Consumers contract will be taken "no later than Sept. 10, the next regularly scheduled meeting," he added.

The proposed long-range Consumers-NPPS contract has been worked out by officials of both agencies after several months of negotiations.

It would replace the integration agreement between the two agencies drawn in 1958 but which was never signed due to disagreement over some provisions.

Power Rate Change May Up Your Bill

Increased wholesale power rates approved by the Loup River Public Power District and the Platte Valley Public Power and Irrigation District this week could cause an increase in retail power rates for Lincolnites.

Loup and Platte Valley are co-operators of the Nebraska Public Power System, under whose name the new program will be carried out.

Dale Renner, manager of the Lincoln office of Consumers Public Power District, said that such rate increases "will mean a substantial additional cost to CPPD in wholesale power purchases."

He said, however, that he didn't know if CPPD in Lincoln "could absorb these additional costs rather than pass them on to the consumer."

City Public Works Director D. L. Erickson said that the wholesale rate increase "could possibly" cause the city to increase its retail power rates.

"We don't know yet," Erickson said, "and won't know until our study of the matter is completed."

Lisbon, Portugal (AP)—Peter Gluckmann, 33 of San Francisco, Calif., arrived from the Azores on the second stage of his solo flight around the world in a single-engine plane. He said his next stop is Cairo, which he hopes to reach in 16 hours.

Omaha Hospital Manager Leaving

Washington (AP)—Dr. Blanton E. Russell has been appointed manager of the Durham, N.C., veterans hospital.

Russell now is manager of the Omaha Veterans Hospital. The Veterans Administration announced Thursday he will replace Dr. James S. Glotfelty at Durham. Glotfelty will become medical director of the Los Angeles Veterans Center.

Dr. Kenneth W. Brown, manager of the Clarksburg, W.Va., Veterans Hospital, will become Omaha manager.

Dr. Raymond F. Smith, manager of the Cincinnati Veteran Hospital, will be Clarksburg Manager.

Lincoln General Trustees Set $1,665,506 Budget

The Lincoln General Hospital board of trustees Thursday approved a 1959-60 budget of $1,665,506, which is 9.1% higher than last year's figure. Last year's figure. Last year's operating costs were $1,525,461.

Guenzel

The board also re-elected its officers: Robert Guenzel, president; George W. Rosenlof, vice president; Mrs. James Ellis, secretary, and Lloyd Corp, treasurer.

"Most of the budget increase will go for salary increases to non-professional employees and for the hiring of additional personnel, including some registered nurses," Guenzel said.

Operating Technicians

The additional personnel he explained, would include employes trained to act as operating technicians in surgery.

Such employees would be qualified persons to be trained in an intensive course by the operating room supervisor to serve as surgery technicians, and as assistant operating room supervisor.

The use of surgery or operating technicians at Lincoln General will be the first time such a procedure has been used in Lincoln. Several Omaha hospitals already use this practice, Hospital Administrator Herb Anderson told the board, and it is routine procedure in military hospitals.

Frees Nurse

It results, he said, in freeing a professional surgery nurse for duties where her experience and judgement are most needed.

The higher budget means that non-tax-supported Lincoln General Hospital will have to increase some of its service charges later this year, Guenzel told the board.

The hospital is operated on its earned income, plus income derived from endowment funds.

Costs Up 8.3%

Anderson told the board that the average hospital operating cost rose 8.3% over 1957, according to figures released by the American Hospital Assn. The same statistics show that salaries accounted for 65.4% of the average hospital budget in the voluntary non-profit category.

Lincoln General's budget allocates 57.8% for salaries. This is an increase of 8.4% over salary allocations for the 1958-59 year, Anderson said.

Employe standards set up by the AHA specify 224 employes for each 100 beds, Board members were told. "This would mean that Lincoln General's 17-bed capacity should have 380.8 full-time employes," Anderson said.

"However, we are 84.4 employes below the national average with only 296.4 full time or equivalent on our total payroll," he continued.

The 1959-60 budget will go into effect Sept. 1, Anderson said.

Bank Teller Trial Again Postponed

Federal District Court trial of Shirley Clark, former McCook bank teller on charges of embezzlement and making fraudulent entries, has been postponed until the January term.

Federal Judge Robert Van Pelt granted the postponement requested by her attorney, Charles Bosley of Pallisade.

Miss Clark, 32, was to have faced jury trial on Sept. 8 at North Platte. She is presently at liberty on $1,500 bond after pleading innocent to 6 embezzling counts and 7 false entry counts when arraigned in August, 1958.

This was the second postponement granted in the case.

Patch-Work Chiefs Toppled By Sioux City, 9-3

Newkirk's Five-Hitter Wins; Elks Night Set

By Don Bryant

Lincoln's patch-work Chiefs who have held together surprisingly well in recent games, ran into trouble Thursday night at Sherman Field, dropping a 9-3 decision to the Sioux City Soos.

With 575 fans — it was Continental National Bank and Statehouse Night—on hand, the evening was one of frustration for the Chiefs.

They hurt themselves at times with errors and forgetfulness, but Soo Pitcher Dave Newkirk made life even more miserable by pinning a 5-hitter on them.

Tonight will be Elks Night at Sherman Field, with Lincoln Lodge No. 80 supplying free tickets to Lincoln fans. Tickets may be obtained from Elk members or at the club office. Game time is 8 p.m.

Ronnie Bloodworth (9-14) will pitch for the Chiefs, while Dutch Woerner will be on the mound for the Soos.

Newkirk had a comfortable cushion from the 3rd inning on, and had a 2-hit shutout going until the 7th. At that point, the Soo hurler—who hadn't walked a man—lost the plate with regularity.

Mike Hershberger managed a single for the Chiefs—the 3rd hit off Newkirk—but 4 walks did the most damage, forcing in the 2 Lincoln runs of the frame.

Tony Frulio's solo homer in the 3rd got the Soos rolling and they coasted against 3 Lincoln pitchers—Joel Horlen, who lost his 9th decision, Dick Kimball and Bryant Wasdell.

But the big man for the Soos was Catcher Vern Bernhardt. He got 4 hits in 5 trips, including a pair of triples and a double, to drive 4 tallies and score a pair himself.

With the Soos comfortably in front, 9-2, the Chiefs plated their 3rd run in the 8th on Don Gordon's infield hit and Jimmy Lynn's two-bagger.

Highlight of the night was the performance of a stray mongrel who found Sherman Field to his liking.

He held up proceedings in the top of the first by frolicking in right field, lying down, jumping, rolling over, whirling and generally having a ball with his pursuers.

After being bounced by the Lincoln batboy, the dog decided the unhappy Lincoln fans needed a dose of cheer in the 8th and returned for an encore.

This time he moved in back of home plate and commenced to bark at players, umpires, fans and press box inhabitants. After a lengthy chorus, he quite proudly strode down the right field line and retired for the night.

Smoke Signals . . . Guests of Pres. A. Q. Schimmel Tuesday night were 19 Japanese Agriculturists and industrialists, currently touring the United States . . . Saturday will be Ira Hutchinson Night . . . Lincoln pitchers combined to fan 13 Soos . . . Lincoln's attendance for the year is 40,750.

POINT BLANK

By Don Bryant

Sports Editor, The Star

The Big Game Hunt

Big 8 football coaches feel the league is improving each year.

Last week several of them made a point of telling the world: "We're all improving and it won't be too long until the bottom team can play the top team and have a chance to win."

Considering the fact that Oklahoma hasn't lost a conference game since 1946, and shows no sign of cracking, such a balanced league would certainly be welcome.

All-out recruiting, under highly competitive conditions, is the order of the day and the main reason Big 8 clubs are growing stronger.

And it's no secret that home-state boys can't do the job by themselves anymore. That is Nebraska boys can't hold their own against a team composed of the cream of the crop from all over the land. Neither can Kansas boys, or Colorado boys, or Iowa boys.

Mixture Needed

If a team is to be successful, it must mix the best of the native sons with the best obtainable out-of-state players.

In the Big 8 Missouri will rely the heaviest on home-grown talent. Of the 63 players listed on the 1959 roster, all but 16 are from Missouri.

Nebraska ranks second, with Oklahoma a very close third. The Huskers have 34 Nebraskans on a 65-man squad for a 52.3 percentage of natives.

Oklahoma, which has the second largest squad with 71, lists 34 out-of-staters, most of them from neighboring Texas.

All told, the Big 8 squads will average 50.3 per cent home-state players. Thus, Nebraska and Oklahoma are above average in this respect, although both clubs are counting on non-natives for a great deal of help.

Other schools above average are Kansas (51.7%) and Missouri (74.6%).

Iowa State has gone the furthest down the importing road, listing only 13 of 46 players from Iowa for a 28.3%. Others below the home state average are Colorado (40.5%) and Kansas State (49.1%).

With Missouri representing the home-state extreme and Iowa State the out-of-state extreme, the rest of the clubs are bunched pretty well, dividing their squads almost evenly between the two groups.

Huskers Not Hurt

It's interesting to note, also, that while Nebraska has entered the "big picture" phase of recruiting in earnest, seeking good players no matter where they reside, the Huskers are not losing very many standouts to other conference schools.

Colorado, Kansas and Iowa State each boast two Nebraska high school grads, but none of the 6 are listed higher than a 3rd team spot on their club's pre-season depth chart.

Nebraska's 1959 squad is composed of 34 home grown products, 5 Iowans, 4 players from Texas, Minnesota and Ohio, 3 from Illinois, 2 New Yorkers and South Dakotans and one each from Michigan, California, Montana, Missouri, Kansas, Washington and Georgia.

And you can bet your 50-yard line seat that regardless of where he's from, the fellow who scores a TD for Nebraska will look just as Cornhusker-ish to the alums as the Ed Weirs, George Sauers, Harry Hopps and Bobby Reynolds.

Here's the loop chart:

	Total Squad Number	Out-Of-State Players	Home State Percent	Nebraska Players
Colorado	79	47	40.5	2
Oklahoma	71	34	52.1	0
NEBRASKA	65	31	52.3	34
Missouri	63	16	74.6	0
Kansas	58	28	51.7	2
Kansas State	55	28	49.1	0
Iowa State	46	33	28.3	2
Totals	437	217	50.3	40

Heat On MacKay In Cup Singles

Forest Hills, N.Y. (AP) — The spotlight is on Peruvian Alex Olmedo but the pressure lies with big, free-swinging Barry MacKay when the United States opens defense of the Davis Cup today against always formidable Australia.

With the series rated a toss-up, it's figured at least one victory must come off MacKay's booming racket if the international trophy is to remain in this country.

The impassive Inca, Olmedo, plays Australia's No. 1 star, Neale Fraser, in the opening match at 12:00 (CST). MacKay faces the 21-year-old Rod Laver in the followup at the West Side Tennis Club. Both Australians are lefthanders.

As the poised court killer who won the cup almost single-handedly in Brisbane last year and later captured the Australian and Wimbledon championships, Olmedo is favored to win both his singles assignments.

Australia, famed for a long line of fine doubles combinations, is the choice in the tandem event Saturday when its Wimbledon and U.S. champions, Fraser and Roy Emerson, will be arrayed against Olmedo and 18-year-old Earl Buchholz Jr., of St. Louis.

MacKay, a 23-year-old Air force private, is aware of his position and, instead of being uneasy, revels in it.

"I've just lived for the day I could redeem my two losses in the Challenge Round last year," he said. "I'm playing the best tennis of my life. I am confident I can win my two matches and even go on to win the national singles later.

"I'm loose as a goose. What have I to lose? If I'm beaten, I'm still just a bum anyway."

LAMSON QUITS CYCLONE 11

Ames, Ia. (AP) — Tailback Chuck Lamson, considered the top defensive player on the Iowa State team, said here Thursday, he is quitting football.

Lamson lettered as a sophomore last fall. He did not say why he is not returning.

Lamson's decision trimmed the Cyclone football squad to 37 players. He was slated for second-team duty on offense behind All-Big 8 tailback Dwight Nichols.

Harold

(Editor's Note: Winning at the races is just a matter of using a little horse sense. Recognizing this, the Star sports staff continues to bring you Happy Harold, whose Fairground selections are guaranteed to come straight from the horse's mouth.)

The Great Fairgrounds Finish line is now but a stretch away, and most of us in the barn are indulging in a sentimental look ahead.

To those of us who sometimes win, a pleasant sojourn south draws near. To those of us whom fortune has not blessed with victory, the trans-Nebraska trek to Mitchell is at hand.

Tis truly a sentimental hour. Banker Bill, I think, expressed the sentiments of all of us today when he muttered to his jockey mounting up:

"Get off my back, will ya?"

Rigney Furious After Giants Beaten Twice

San Francisco Boss Rips Giles

. . . Phils Win, 7-2, 2-1

Philadelphia (AP)—A tired, bedraggled looking band of Giants were jolted twice Thursday by the cellar dwelling Philadelphia Phillies, slicing the San Francisco lead in the National League to two games over Los Angeles. The scores were 7-2 and 2-1.

Manager Bill Rigney of the Giants was an angry man in the loser's clubhouse after the doubleheader. He lashed at National League President Warren Giles for forcing the Giants to play a pair Thursday after a game Wednesday night in Pittsburgh.

The Giants arrived in Philadelphia at 2:30 a.m. and were at the ball park at 11 a.m. for pre-game practice. They played at time like a team in a trance, waving at balls the sharp defense usually eats up, and running bases like sleepwalkers.

Rigney

"You'd think we were a last place club or something, the consideration we were given in rescheduling this rained out doubleheader. We looked dead," Rigney growled.

The usually punchless Phillies, who ended a 6 game losing streak as the Giants dropped their 3rd straight, broke out in a rash of extra base and timely hits in helping Jim Owens (10-11) and Don Cardwell (8-7) to pitching victories. Lefty Mike McCormick (11-11) with 5 victories, including 3 shutouts over Philadelphia this year, let the locals out of his pocket for the first time in the opener. He was knocked out in a 5-run 6th.

The Phillies Ed Bouchee had a home run—his 14th—and a triple, while Daryl Spencer hit his 11th homer for San Francisco.

Basilio—Relaxes Before Fight

Basilio, Fullmer Battle For Title

. . . NBA Version

San Francisco (AP) — Two brawling belters who have worn the world middleweight crown will battle tonight to regain a big share of the world title.

Carmen Basilio, the craggy faced warrior from Chittenango, N.Y., and Gene Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, tangle for 15 rounds or less at the Cow Palace.

The winner gets the National Boxing Assn. blessing as titlist of the 160-pound division, a spot declared vacant last May 4 when the ruling body withdrew the championship from Sugar Ray Robinson for not defending it.

Robinson hadn't fought since winning the title from Basilio in a bloody battle March 25, 1958. The year before, Fullmer had won and lost in a pair with Sugar Ray. Although the NBA stripped Robinson of his laurels, he's still recognized as champ in New York and Massachusetts.

A gate of $200,000 was expected with another $175,000 from television (NBC) for the 8 p.m. CST bout.

Basilio should get about $140,000 as his share with the Utah strongboy expected to grab more than $100,000.

The $175,000 television money represents the highest amount paid for a home video boxing show except for a heavyweight title bout. Promoter Norman Rothschild of Syracuse, N.Y., estimated 60 million would watch the TV production.

Basilio declared he aims to become the second man ever to knock out Fullmer, who has won 49 fights and lost 4. Fullmer stopped 21 foes and only Robinson ever stopped him.

Basilio, who held the welterweight crown before stepping up a notch, has gone into the pro ring 74 times, won 54, lost 13 and fought 7 draws. He has knocked out 27 and never been stopped.

"I believe," said Fullmer, "that this fight will be decided in the last 5 rounds and I expect my weight edge to give me the advantage."

He'll probably weigh 8 pounds more than Carmen. Manager Marv Jenson expects the Utah fighter to scale 159½ at the 10 a.m. weigh-in and put on 3 more pounds with a meal after that.

"I like to fight the bigger fellows," says Basilio who'll weigh between 153 and 155. "They provide a better target."

Carmen probably will enter the fight a slight favorite but the quoted odds have been fluctuating.

Chisox Scorch Boston

Chicago (AP) — Right-hander Barry Latman held Boston to one run and reserve catcher John Romano drove in 3 runs as the Chicago White Sox whipped the Red Sox 5-1 Thursday and raised their league lead over the second place Cleveland Indians to a game and a half.

Ted Williams homered opening the 9th, his 10th circuit blast of the season, to ruin Latman's shutout bid. The 23-year-old hurler has won 7 games and lost 5.

Romano, stepping into the cleanup spot to give veteran Sherm Lollar a rest before Chicago's important 4-game series in Cleveland beginning Friday night, smashed in Chicago's first two runs in the 3rd inning.

Milton Opens Games

. . . 30,000 Swelter

Chicago (AP)—Dr. Milton Eisenhower, on behalf of his brother, the president, opened the 3rd Pan-American Games Thursday before a sun-baked crowd of 30,000.

"Our dedication, in this area of the free world, to the cardinal principles of equality, justice, and the dignity of man are well known, and as we apply these principles in our actions and personal association, the friendship of our peoples grows and deepens," said Dr. Eisenhower.

Originally, President Eisenhower was to have opened the games but his brother substituted when it became necessary for the president to make a tour of various European capitals.

The crowd gave a great ovation to the perspiring athletes who paraded into Soldier Field behind their national flags and then lined up on the green grass for the simple, dignified ceremonies. Most of the 2,152 athletes from 24 nations marched, but some who will compete today were kept on the sidelines and older officials did not parade because of the heat.

Explorer scout Ronald Rodriguez touched off the Pan-American flame with an electronic torch that had been relayed 2,400 miles from Mexico City by more than 3,000 boy scouts. It was stolen in Oklahoma but recovered. The flame will burn until the games end Sept. 7. As it flared up atop the scoreboard, 5,000 doves were set free on the field and quickly circled skywards.

George V. Worth of Flushing, N.Y., a native of Budapest who competed for the United States in fencing in the 1951 games in Buenos Aires and the 1955 games in Mexico City, took the Pan-American oath on behalf of all competitors as the flags of the 24 nations were grouped in a semicircle behind him.

Competition starts today in men's and women's track, and women's basketball, baseball, fencing, soccer, weightlifting, tennis, volleyball and yachting. By the week-end most of the 27 sports on the games' program will be in action.

Track and field opens tonight on the new, lightning fast track at Soldier Field. One of the opening night's events is the 10,000-meter run, roughly equivalent to 6 miles, in which Osvaldo Suarez of Argentina is defending champion. If all goes well he will aim at winning this, the 5,000, and the marathon for long distance running's great triple crown.

Reds' O'Toole Blanks Cubs

Cincinnati (AP)—Jim O'Toole, 22-year-old rookie southpaw, allowed only 5 hits and struck out 10 as he pitched the Cincinnati Reds to a 5-0 victory over the Chicago Cubs Thursday night.

The game was played under protest from the first inning, however.

Wesleyan To Be Small Numerically, But Long With Seasoned Veterans

By Paul LeBar

In numbers, Nebraska Wesleyan Coach Kieth Skogman said Thursday, "we'll have a smaller squad, I think, than usual."

Kieth, the Minnesota transplant off the campus of Adolphus, is counting on about 50 varsity prospects showing up for the Plainsmen's opening drill Tuesday morning.

The squad, Skogman thinks, should be one of his best editions in 6 years at the Lincoln school.

There are 21 prospective lettermen returning, and, as the crew-cut mentor puts it, "a lot of ends and quarterbacks."

Biggest gaps left by graduation last spring were at right halfback, where two-year regular Chuck Evans was lost and at guard, where Ron Wolvin departed.

Other losses included offensive fullback Larry Cook, offensive center Frank Colon and defensive halfback Bob Heffelfinger.

'57 Regular Back

Regulars returning include Dean Sell and Dean Pedersen at the flanks, Jim Wiberg and Dale Zehring at tackles, Everett Davis at guard and Gary O'Mara, a 1957 first stringer, at center.

The secondary includes Lonnie Johnson and Bob Els alternate signal-callers; halfbacks Gary Hofmann and Merle Faubel and fullback Bob Johnson and Chuck Segers.

Additional letterman are ends Marty Miller, Lynn Rexroth and Paul Martin; tackles Frank Gaines, Paul Klaus and Rod Bartels, and centers Tom Ehlers and Don Mays.

Stoehr To Bid

Ron Nannen from Sprague-Martell, rated a comer at tackle last fall, will not be eligible for the 9-game campaign.

Rudy Stoehr, ace Plainsmen basketballer who gave up baseball with a sore arm in mid-summer, is expected to bid for an end position.

Skogman, whose charges won 5 of 9 encounters a year ago, admits, "If we don't go, it'll be our own fault.

"We should be a little stronger than last year," he confirmed.

Assisting Skogman again this year will be Bob (Moon) Mullen and John Bordogna—both former Nebraska U. players—and Leif Bolleson.

The Plainsmen begin two-a-day drills Tuesday at 6 a.m. and 4 p.m. Physical examinations are scheduled to lead off at 5 a.m. opening day.

Schedule, 1958 scores in parentheses:

Sept. 19—at Kansas Wesleyan (15-20); 26—at Wayne State (28-0).
Oct. 3—Dana (28-6); 10—at Hastings (6-26); 16—Midland (27-7); 24—Kearney State (0-14); 31—at Concordia (47-0).
Nov. 7—Chadron State (13-32); 13—at Doane (21-7).

McIntire Tops Champ In National

Washington (AP)—Barbara McIntire, 24-year-old tournament veteran, staged a relentless comeback from a 3-hole deficit on the back nine for a smashing upset victory over defending champion Anne Quast on the 20th hole of the quarterfinals of the U.S. Women's Amateur Golf Championship.

Miss Quast, 21, of Marysville, Wash., blew her hopes of a second straight national title on the 18th when she rammed her tee shot off the bank of the Congressional Country Club green into a mass of underbrush.

Joanne Goodwin, 23, of Haverhill, Mass., also came from behind for a triumph over Judy Eller, 19-year-old Southern and Intercollegiate champion from Old Hickory, Tenn., on the 23rd hole.

Demons Maintain Three-I Pace

Topeka, Kan. (AP) — Two home runs by Wayne Graham and the 6-hit pitching of Bob Gill enabled league-leading Des Moines to hold a game and a half bulge in the Three-I League race as the Demons turned back Topeka 4-3 Thursday night.

Graham had 4 hits. He singled in another run in addition to his two homers.

Appleton, Wis. (AP) — Fox Cities defeated Burlington 2-1 in the Three-I League as winning pitcher Fred Bruckbauer and loser Charley Herzberger each hurled 3-hit ball.

Chuch Weatherspoon hit a bases empty homer for Fox Cities. Second baseman Dick Harris, son of Boston Red Sox general manager Bucky Harris, added the other run in the 3rd when he walked, advanced to third on heads-up base running on a sacrifice and scored on an infield out.

No Bowl For Oklahoma

OU Concentrates On Big 8

By Skipper Patrick

Kansas City (AP) — The Oklahoma Sooners can concentrate this fall on such things as winning their 12th consecutive Big Eight Conference football title and shooting for national honors.

Somebody else is going to represent the Big Eight in the Orange Bowl come New Years Day. Present Big Eight rules don't permit a member team making two successive post season journeys. Oklahoma beat Syracuse in the last Orange Bowl game and has been successful on each of its 4 trips to Miami during the last 6 years.

With Oklahoma out of the bowl picture — all bowls under present Big Eight regulations — the race to Miami is expected to feature the Missouri Tigers, second last season, and the Kansas Jayhawks, who finished 3rd by tying Missouri in the final game of the season.

Some rate the Nebraska Cornhuskers, long time kingpins in pre-World War II days, as a threat. There's backing for Colorado, which is starting a rebuilding campaign under new head coach Everett (Sonny) Grandelius.

Kansas State and Iowa State likely will follow their practice of making things difficult for teams that are rated to beat them. Oklahoma State University, which doesn't become eligible for the Big Eight title until 1960, could have one of its better teams.

The Missouri-Kansas angle at the moment is just about as indecisive as their 13-13 tie last year. It's a matter of which one gets the jump and stands up under early competition against nonleaguers.

Missouri coach Dan Devine is happy about having quarterback Phil Snowden and a crowd of other good backs and linemen returning, but he's concerned about having to replace linemen Charlie Rash and Don Chadwick, his ace guards of last season.

Coach Jack Mitchell, like Devine a sophomore in Big Eight coaching, believes his Kansas Jayhawks have more overall ability and doesn't mind saying the success of his club will depend largely on how John Peppercorn, a tackle last year, fits in as a halfback this fall.

"Peppercorn is real versatile," Mitchell says. "We could use him to advantage at tackle, end or halfback. But when we shift him to one spot we get hurt at two others."

Bill Jennings of Nebraska, Bus Mertes of Kansas State and Clay Stapleton of Iowa State contend they'll have stronger clubs than a year ago.

On the all star scene, Oklahoma will have a prime candidate for national honors in senior back Prentice Gautt.

Dwight Nichols, Iowa State's 164-pound senior tailback from Knoxville, Ia., gives considerable breeze to the Cyclones. With a winning club he could be a prime All America candidate.

Iowa State, because of its early school starting date, opens practice today. The other Big Eight members will get started with their two-a-day drills Sept. 1.

Pros Blister Milwaukee Open Par; Cooper Leads

Milwaukee (AP) — Unheralded Pete Cooper of Lakeland, Fla., mastered the greens with a hot putter for a 6-under-par 64 Thursday, but had to settle for a one stroke lead in the opening round of the $35,000 Milwaukee Open tournament at Tripoli Golf Club.

In a whirlwind finish as a soaking, daylong rain lifted, Doug Sanders of Miami Beach and Ken Venturi of San Francisco just missed catching Cooper, winding up one stroke off the pace.

The nation's top pros laughed at the weather and made a farce of par in a withering assault on the short 6,355-yard Tripoli layout. All told, 42 bettered par 70 and 11 others equaled regulation figures.

Cooper, a graying 44-year-old club pro who has won the Florida Open 7 times, sank putts ranging from 3 1/3 to 30 feet for 3 birdies on the front 9 and 3 more coming back. He got down in par on all other holes for his 32-32—64 total, just one stroke off the course record.

Sanders and Venturi, playing in the same threesome several hours after Cooper finished, each went out in two under 33 and came back in three under 32.

Two strokes behind in a 3-way tie with 66s were former PGA and Masters' champion Doug Ford, playing out of Crystal River, Fla., Bo Wininger of Odessa, Texas., and Mike Dietz of Paw Paw, Mich.

Christianos Gain Regional Tourney

The Lincoln Christiano's girls softball team, winners of the women's state championship, will enter regional tournament play at Omaha today.

The Capital Citians will meet Kansas City in the tourney opener at Omaha's Boyd Field, game time 7:30.

Christianos clipped Chadron 10-8 for the second time in two nights to earn the title.

Green Bay, Wis. (AP) — The Green Bay Bluejays scored their 5th straight Three-I League triumph, defeating Cedar Rapids 6-4.

Roberts To Undergo Diabetes Examination

Philadelphia (AP)—Robin Roberts is to undergo a series of tests today to determine if the veteran pitcher of the Philadelphia Phillies is afflicted with diabetes or some other ailment.

John Quinn, general manager of the Phillies, announced that the 32-year-old Roberts would undergo a checkup as an out patient at Temple University Hospital.

"If the doctor gives Robbie an okay, he will leave to join the club in Pittsburgh," Quinn says. "If he doesn't, Roberts will remain home for treatment."

Quinn said the examination routine check of the squad disclosed Roberts had an excess of sugar in his system.

"I was completely unaware of any excess sugar in my system until the routine check," Roberts said.

He asserted:

"I never had felt any ill effects. There is no history whatsoever of diabetes in my family. Maybe it was something I ate before taking the routine examination. You know how these things pop up."

Manager Eddie Sawyer of the Phillies said his right hand ace is slated to pitch against the Pirates Saturday night if the medical examination is favorable.

Roberts, considered by many as one of the all-time pitching greats in the National League, has had a fair season with the cellar dwelling Phillies. He has won 11 and dropped 14. However, the well spoken hurler lost 4 of his last 5 which may have prompted the checkup.

Roberts, who has won 217 and lost 170 since coming to the Phillies in 1948, didn't seem concerned by the surprising development. He worked out Thursday before the doubleheader against San Francisco. He was jocular in the dugout, jockeying the Giants as they took field practice.

A 28-game winner in 1952 and winner of 20 games or more in 6 consecutive seasons, Roberts had a couple of rough years in 1956 and 1957, but last season he won 17 games and qualified as the National League's comeback player of the year.

Cards Thump Braves

St. Louis (AP) — Ken Boyer drove in 4 runs and Joe Cunningham celebrated his 28th birthday with 4 hits Thursday to spark the St. Louis Cardinals to a 5-4 victory over the Milwaukee Braves.

Cunningham opened the 8th inning with a long triple off Don McMahon and slid home on Boyer's sacrifice fly to break a 4-4 tie. It was Boyer's first sacrifice fly of the season.

The Cardinals gathered 17 hits, 5 for extra bases.

Cunningham, who scored 3 runs, moved within 8 percentage points of Hank Aaron, the National League batting leader. The Cardinal outfielder climbed to .349. Aaron, who had one hit in 4 tries, tumbled to .357.

The winner was Lindy (14-11) McDaniel, who took over in the 6th and blanked the Braves on 4 hits the rest of the way.

McDaniel now has a 13-7 record as a reliver with 13 saves. He got Bobby Avila on a game-ending grounder with the tying run on third in the 9th.

Return Contract Signed

Ring Needs Commissioner—Dempsey

New York (AP)—Jack Dempsey said Thursday that a Floyd Patterson representative, equipped with power of attorney, had signed the contract for a return bout with heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson next spring and that the agreement was legally binding on both fighters.

Dempsey identified Edwin S. Schweig, a New York attorney and a member of the Dempsey party in Goteborg, Sweden, as having signed for Patterson when Johansson initialed it for himself. The Swedish fighter lifted the crown, held by Dempsey 40 years ago, from Patterson by a 3rd round knockout in Yankee Stadium on June 26.

Patterson and Cus D'Amato, his manager, have not been available for their views on the contract since the Tuesday signing.

The 64-year old former Manassa Mauler, apparently enjoying his return to the boxing limelight, said he had agreed to become the arbitrator in the arguments between Johansson and the Rosensohn Enterprises, the firm which promoted the first bout, "because I wanted to see to it that everybody involved got what was due him. And that means both good and bad.

"I want to be sure that the boxers got the money that was promised them. And I want to be certain that if anybody involved in the mess that followed the first bout has done anything wrong, he gets barred for life."

A 4-pronged investigation into the affairs of the Rosensohn Enterprises now is under way. Since the June 26 bout Bill Rosensohn, the founder, has been ousted as president and Vincent J. Velella, majority stockholder, has taken over in a bitter power struggle.

"This mess proves again that what boxing needs is a national commissioner, such as baseball has," Dempsey said.

"I think boxing should name a commissioner voluntarily. But if the leaders of the sport can't agree, then the United States government should step in, name a commissioner and equip him with enough power to make his decisions stick."

Was he candidate for such a job?

"I am 64 years old," he said, lighting another cigar, "I have many things to do. But anything I can do to help the game, I will do. But there are many men better qualified than myself."

JOCKEY FINED $100

Jockey Garland Gibbons has been fined $100 for failure to report to the jockey room to fulfill his engagements.

Syracuse Goes All Out For Fair

Attendance Hits 7,500 For Final Day Parade

By Gene Rudig

Syracuse, Neb.—When the people of Otoe County decide to do something, they do it in a big way.

This was obvious at the close of the annual county fair here Wednesday.

Well over 7,500 persons lined the main street of this town of 1,100 to view one of Nebraska's largest fair parades.

The large parade, which climaxed the 3-day festival, featured some 100 floats and displays. The parade passed in review for nearly an hour.

"This is by far the largest parade we've ever had," one 73-year-old Nebraska City man said, "but the crowd is about the same as last year."

Attendance Up

Fair officials report that the overall attendance is slightly larger than last year.

A record high of 300 livestock animals were entered for judging, an official said. The animals were submitted by 4-H and Future Farmers of America chapters.

Approximately 3,000 4-H'ers competed in the exhibit division. "This number is a little higher than last year's list," he said.

Rounding out Thursday's activities were:

Appearance of the Lincoln American Legion Drum and Bugle Corps.

Sale of 4-H and FFA livestock.

Concert featuring 5 county high school bands.

County stage production.

And a baseball game between Douglas and Nebraska City.

More than 7,500 Otoe County residents jammed the Syracuse downtown district for the traditional fair parade. The parade featured some 100 floats and displays. (Star Staff Photo)

Maxon Lauds West German Free Teaching

Hastings, Neb. — Hastings College President Theron B. Maxon Thursday praised West German educators for an "insistence upon the importance of freedom in teaching as a sound basis for German democracy."

Maxon is back in Hastings after a two-week seminar at Bad Boll Germany, near Stuttgart, between American and German administrators and public school educators. Maxon was chairman of a 15-man American group.

Commenting on the German situation, the Hastings College President said:

"These educators, living so close to the Communist East Zone, see the grave consequences of the lack of academic freedom experienced by teachers and students of the Eastern zone.

"All evidence from educators who have fled the East indicate that text books and classroom methods in the Eastern Zone are all bent toward complete obedience to the central Communist state.

"The American educators who participated in the conference brought home a new high appreciation of the great values of the American Public School system."

Maxon said he had an opportunity to talk with educators in West Berlin and to see first hand the general condition of the East sector of the city.

Maxon said he plans to present further comments and impressions of his trip in a series of lectures to be given this fall at the college.

Kimball Oil Well Is 20th This Year

Kimball, Neb. (AP) — A new discovery southwest of here has given Kimball County its 20th field opener since the first of the year.

Nebraska drillers brought in the No. 3 Evertson just a mile south of the firm's No. 1 Schomer discovery reported a week earlier. It is two miles east of the first successful well drilled in the county.

A drill stem test of the J sand from 6,423-30 feet brought 1,608 feet of oil and 50 feet of oil cut mud.

Three other field wells also made producers during the week.

Pan American brought in the No. 6 Baltensperger in the Riggs Field. British-American got a confirmation of the Divoky discovery, the No. 1 Chandler and Simpson added another producer in the Simpson field, the No. 2-K Rodman.

Five wells were plugged as dry holes. Two were wildcats and 3 development wells.

Sidney, Neb. (AP) — Ferris Prebel, the youngest mayor in the history of Sidney, will submit his resignation, effective in mid-October, to return to school to obtain a degree and become a teacher.

The Sidney store will be the firm's 55th in the state.

Preble, 32 when he was elected mayor last year, plans to attend San Jose State Teachers College at San Jose, Calif., in January. Upon receiving his degree, he expects to teach in California.

AEC Finds 'No Cause For Fallout Alarm' Here

...Strontium 90 Only 5.6 Units In Milk

Washington (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission says preliminary results of a radioactivity study in Nebraska "show clearly no cause for alarm."

A. R. Luedecke, AEC general manager, reported on the fallout study, as it pertains to milk and corn, in a letter to Sen. Roman L. Hruska (R-Neb.)

He said monitoring showed 5.6 units of Strontium-90 in a fresh milk sample collected at Lincoln last May 25 and 8.1 units in a dried milk sample which was processed in February.

Range 3.1 To 37.3

In comparison, Luedecke said results from the 12 milk sampling stations of the Public Health Service network show a range of 3.1 to 37.3 units with an average of 11.9 for April, the latest month reported.

He said analyses of corn in Nebraska showed 2.5 and 0.8 units.

"The relatively low calcium content and the low total activity of the sample of corn accounts for the substantial difference found in the two analyses of the same sample," Luedecke said.

Not Much Data

"There is not a large amount of data on corn but the values strontium-90 units listed above are within the range expected for the United States."

Hruska had requested the survey last April.

Luedecke explained that strontium-90, a radioisotope, is the constituent of principal concern in fallout.

Basic Acre Rate Must Be Found

To Get Land In Soil Bank

Farmers who wish to place cropland in the soil bank's 1960 conservation reserve must ask the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee to set a basic annual rate per acre for the offered land.

Honor M. Ochsner, chairman of the state ASC committee, said farmers have until Sept. 10 to file the request.

In setting the basic annual per acre rate, the county committee will take into consideration land productivity. The rate will be limited to the local fair rental value of the land based on crops harvested the past 5 years.

When all the eligible cropland on the farm is offered, the rate generally will be 10% higher than the rate when only part of the land is offered.

After the basic rate is determined, the farmer may apply for a contract at any figure below the basic rate.

Contracts under the conservation reserve may run as long as 10 years. During the contract, the farmer will receive an annual rental payment on the reserved land. He also will receive cost sharing help in establishing an approved conservation practice.

The basic per acre rate of payment under the 1960 conservation reserve in Nebraska is $12.50, the same as 1959. Tentative acreage goal for the state is 227,000 acres.

Tractor Overturns; Farmer Is Dead

Bladen, Neb. (AP)—James Vance, 68, of Hastings was found dead near his overturned tractor in a farm field 4 miles west of here Wednesday.

Vance had been pulling a harrow with the tractor. The tractor hit a washout and overturned. Vance's body was found between the tractor and the harrow.

Sheriff Albert Jelkin of Franklin County, who investigated in the absence of Webster County Sheriff Tom Kelley, said there were no obvious injuries. Sheriff Jelkin speculated the excitement could have brought on a heart attack.

Machine Falls; Kills Workman

Massena (AP)—Clifford Funk, 46, a construction worker, was killed Thursday when a road construction machine tipped over on him on Highway 148 south of here.

Funk was employed by the Neilson Construction Co. of Omaha. Although he was from Lucas, Funk had been living in Massena.

Hallam Atom Plant Design Is Reviewed

Washington (AP) — Design of the reactor system for Nebraska's nuclear power plant is being reviewed by the Atomic Energy Commission.

Chairman John A. McCone, at an executive session of the Joint Atomic Energy Committee this week, said:

"The design of the reactor system is being carefully reviewed in order to assure that information obtained from recent experience with fuel element failures in the sodium reactor experiment will be reflected in the Hallam plant."

The sodium-cooled reactor at Hallam, being built in cooperation with Consumers Public Power District, is scheduled to be in operation during 1962.

McCone, in testimony reviewing the AEC program which was made public by the committee, said final engineering of the Nebraska plant was 20% complete on July 31 and was on schedule. He said construction proceeded satisfactorily.

McCone's testimony gave no further details about the Hallam plant nor the fuel element failures in the sodium reactor experiment located at Santa Susanna, Calif.

The Nebraska reactor is scheduled to have an output of 75,000 kilowatts upon completion. Total cost is estimated at $77,688,000 with government contributions of $55,503,000.

Iron Curtain Drops Around Brothers

New York (UPI) — Soviet officials dropped the iron curtain around 4 young brothers from Chicago Thursday and whisked them off by plane for Russia, a land they have never seen.

Port authority policemen broke up an angry, shoving melee between newsmen and Russians who had formed a protective cordon around Richard Kozmin, 12, and his brothers, George, 11, Paul, 10, and Peter, 3.

Peter burst into tears and the Russians accused the newsmen of causing him to cry.

The boys' departure was a victory for the Russian government in two years of legal and diplomatic maneuvering to reunite the boys with their parents, George and Nadejda Kozmin, who returned to the Soviet Union two years ago from Chicago.

But Boris Kolodyozhn, first secretary of the Soviet Embassy, had no words of gratitude for American justice in permitting the boys to go to Russia.

"American justice detained them for 5 years," he snapped. "They were taken from their parents. We are glad to deliver them back to their parents."

When the boys first got to the airport, newsmen got close enough to ask Richard if he planned to communicate with his friends and foster parents in Chicago.

His eyes glowed and he said: "Oh, and how I will! I will write to them as often as I can."

Asked how he felt about leaving the United States, he said, "I don't know." He paused when asked what he thought he and his brothers would miss most and then replied: "I guess a lot of things."

Gas War Armistice Declared

From all indications, Lincoln's latest gas war is over, according to George Watters, secretary of Nebraska Petroleum Marketers.

Lincolnites, who were buying regular gas for as low as 22.9 from independent stations and 24.9 from major brand stations after the gas scrap began Aug. 14, will have to go back to normal prices now, he said.

This means motorists will have to dig up 29.9 and 32.9 for regular and premium, respectively, from independents and 31.9 and 35.9 from major brand stations.

A gas surplus on a national level, such as the current one, sometimes has much to do with starting gas wars, Watters said.

He referred to a typical chain of events involving suppliers selling surplus gas at a discount to distributors resulting in retailers also being able to cut their prices.

A retail station thus cuts its price; the station across the street finds out, cuts its price, the word spreads, and—another gas war is on.

Seaton To Speak At Scottsbluff

Washington (AP) —Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton will speak at the annual meeting of the Scottsbluff Soil and Water Conservation District Oct. 5 according to an itinerary released Thursday.

The stop will be one of a series he will make in Colorado, South Dakota, Idaho, Iowa and Nebraska between now and Oct. 10.

Slum Girl Gets Funeral In NYC's Finest Church

New York (UPI) — A little Negro girl from the slums of the lower East Side had her funeral in the richest and most famous church in all of New York.

Theresa Gee, 15, was given last rites in Trinity Church—where Alexander Hamilton's funeral was held 155 years ago and in whose tiny old graveyard at the head of Wall Street are buried such famous Americans as Robert Fulton.

Theresa Gee's claims to fame was that she was shot to death on the tenement streets last Sunday night in another of the senseless and brutal juvenile gang wars that have terrorized New York all this hot summer.

The Rev. C. Kilmer Myers, 43-year-old white Episcopal clergyman who served 40 wartime months aboard the cruiser Memphis, got permission to conduct the funeral in famous Trinity Church in an effort to spark shame and action out of New Yorkers.

Lashes Out

Myers lashed out at police, social workers, the clergy and the whole citizenry as to blame for Theresa's slaying. Then he looked down on a row of teenagers of the Sportsmen Gang, 5 Negroes and 3 whites. Theresa had been the girlfriend of the "president" of the Sportsmen.

"I say to you if you cared about her, then let this be your memorial to her," he said.

"Let there be no more sudden death in the streets of the lower East Side. Let no more innocent people fall to those streets. Banish all thoughts of retaliation. Have heart, real heart like our Lord Jesus Christ, who had courage."

Brooks Visits Birthday Party For Oil Well

No Hint On Post He Plans To Seek

Kimball, Neb. (UPI)—Gov. Ralph Brooks spoke of the future at ceremonies here Thursday marking the 10th anniversary of the first oil producing well in Kimball County.

The Governor said that the discovery of oil was as revolutionary as the discovery of new land. But he added that the discovery that atomic energy can be harnessed has once again opened up a new era.

The Governor noted that while the country is spending millions of dollars on highways, their worth will soon be lessened by the flying auto of the future.

The oil well Brooks dedicated was the first in the county, but at present there are 975.

He again gave no indication of what political office he might seek next year, but said he would be a candidate to the Democratic National Convention.

The Governor returned to McCook, Neb., after the trip to Kimball. He and Mrs. Brooks will go to Atkinson, Neb., Friday afternoon for a Hay Days celebration and return to McCook that evening before returning to Lincoln.

Law Passed Last Is One To Follow —Beck Ruling

Scottsbluff, Neb. (AP) — Attorney General C. S. Beck has ruled that when two statutes conflict with one another the latest one passed shall, by implication, overrule the older statute.

The opinion was requested by Scotts Bluff County Attorney W. H. Kirwin.

Beck said in this case LB 51 passed by the recent legislature would overrule LB68 also passed by the last session.

Beck ruled that in case of an incomplete intangible property tax return or absence of a return the county assessor shall assess the full intangible rate plus the full tangible tax rate. In cases where the omissions are not made intentionally the intangible rate should be assessed plus half the tangible rate.

Washington (AP) —Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton will speak at the annual meeting of the Scottsbluff Soil and Water Conservation District Oct. 5 according to an itinerary released Thursday.

The stop will be one of a series he will make in Colorado, South Dakota, Idaho, Iowa and Nebraska between now and Oct. 10.

Intruder Hits Omaha Lady Then Escapes

Omaha (AP) — A masked intruder Thursday knocked down Mrs. Leonard Heine, 74, with a blunt weapon after invading her home via the back door.

Mrs. Heine said she had gone to the front door in answer to a ring and as she got there she heard the back door slam.

She said she thought it was her husband, working in the yard who had entered. But when she turned around she saw the masked man. She screamed and was struck down.

Her husband ran into the house when Mrs. Heine screamed and met two men, one of whom told him "stay where you are and you won't get hurt."

Heine said he glanced out a window, saw two construction workers across the street and yelled to them for help.

They heard his call and as they started across the street the two men fled from the house and drove away in a car they had parked in the driveway of the Heine home.

Fire Guts Old Radio Station

Clay Center, Neb. (AP) — Fire has burned out the old KMMJ radio station and shopping center here. The blaze was discovered by two girls.

Fire Chief R. H. Oates said the fire may have been caused by spontaneous combustion. He said the fire apparently started in the central part of the attic and spread to the west part of the brick two-story structure.

Wooden barricades on doors and windows hampered firemen in their efforts.

The building has been vacant about 10 years.

Let Public See

Peoria, Ill. (UPI)—Police reported one of Peoria's most often wanted men had proposed a baseball game "between the police department and hoods because the hoods have been getting so much publicity a lot of people would like to see what they look like." Proceeds of the game, he said, would go to charity.

Britain Plans 'Pyramid' Spaceship

London (UPI) — Plans for the proposed launching of a two-ton "flying pyramid" designed to rocket two men 700 miles into space were revealed Thursday by a group of scientists who worked without government aid.

The delta-finned space ship would be Britain's first major step into experimental flights of human beings into space. The flight would take the space ship around the earth 4 times before plunging back into the earth's atmosphere.

The "flying pyramid" proposal was revealed in a paper read at the British Commonwealth Space Flight Symposium. It was worked out by members of the Hawker Siddeley Aviation Advance Projects Group.

The British team was able to skip over lesser space problems that Russia and the United States have used huge sums to tackle, Hilton said, and concentrate on cracking the toughest problem of all—how to get a human being back from outer space to earth.

He said the capsule carrying the two men in space would re-enter the earth's atmosphere 65 miles up at a speed of 18,000 miles an hour and land at 80 miles an hour 95 minutes later.

The pyramid would be launched by a two-stage assembly consisting of the British Black Knight and Blue Streak rockets, at a shallow angle so that the crew could escape should anything go wrong during the launching.

Motors, Steel Pace Stocks

New York (AP)—Motors, steels and aluminums paced the stock market to its best advance of the week in more active trading Thursday.

It was the third straight daily rise but the first of the three sessions to show any real conviction about the price trend.

Volume swelled to a fair-to-middling 2,350,000 shares from 2,210,000 Wednesday and reflected spreading confidence. Each day since Monday there has been a gain in volume as the market nudged ahead with increasing sureness.

Wall Streeters said that the market was discounting eventual settlement of the steel strike and an expected upward bound in production which would yield big corporate profits in the fourth quarter.

New highs were scattered among the motors and steels as these made gains stretching to 2 or 3 points. Motors were especially strong.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose $.77 to 663.34.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose $1.40 to $231.20 with the industrials up $2.80, the rails up 60 cents and the utilities up 10 cents.

Based on the rise in the AP average, the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange rose an estimated $1,800,000,000.

The market remained very narrow, however, as only 1,152 issues were traded. Of these, 610 advanced and 331 declined. There were 34 new highs for the year and 14 new lows.

Eleven of the 16 most active stocks advanced, four declined and one was unchanged. Allis-Chalmers

Corporate bonds declined in slower trading. U.S. government bonds fell after showing early firmness.

Bond sales totaled $4,730,000 par value compared with $5,080,000 Wednesday.

GRAIN MARKETS FINISH WEAK

Chicago (AP)—Most corn contracts finished barely above their lows for the season on the board of trade Thursday as general weakness again seeped through the grain futures market.

Except for some firmness in oats and rye, prices reacted to dwindling commercial demand in a continuing small trade volume which sagged near the low level of the year.

Pressure for the most part was moderate with soybeans the hardest hit. Losses there, however, were less than a cent. All the oats and nearby rye contracts held slightly to the plus side. Wheat and corn eased fractions.

At the close, wheat was unchanged to ½ cent a bushel lower, September $1.90½-⅝; corn ⅛-¼ lower, September $1.17; oats ⅛-¾ higher, September new type contract 66⅝; rye ⅝ higher to ¼ lower, September $1.30⅜-⅝; soybeans ⅝-¾ lower, September $2.10¼.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY

Union Opposition Sometimes Proves To Be A Boomerang

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

Memo to a Labor Boss

Dear Jim:

Your recent circular letter to congressmen who voted for the "tough" labor bill (the Landrum-Griffin) has turned out to be a boo-boo.

Rukeyser

The tone of your communication revealed a hidden desire to behave like a dictator.

But any idea on your part that you can crack the whip and make members of the Congress jump to your will is sheer wishful thinking.

The so-called union power was operative only as long as the sheer numbers in unions were sanctified by biased pro-union expressions by the White House.

President Eisenhower's determination, especially during his second term, to show objectivity toward unions and business management broke the magic spell.

You and your associates who follow the same propaganda line display a cultural lag in not recognizing the changed climate.

Even so informed a reporter as David Lawrence erred after the congressional elections of 1958 in predicting no labor reform bill because the Political Action Committee of the AFL-CIO had too many individual congressmen, whom it had supported, beholden to it.

But the House, in passing the Landrum-Griffin bill, served notice that it is not the stooge of any special interest.

I call you "Jim" because you have frequently been my intellectual sparring partner on network TV and radio debates on the economic consequences of trade unionism as they bear on the value of everybody's money.

You misjudged the capacity of union leaders to push around the rank and file membership on an "American Forum" program in which Victor Riesel and this writer participated with you prior to the presidential election of 1956.

At the time, the Executive Council of the AFL-CIO had endorsed the Stevenson-Kefauver Democratic ticket. You, with the support of the effective Victor Riesel, argued that this type of support would be enough to swing the tide of ballots away from the Eisenhower-Nixon ticket.

I was a minority of one among three in setting forth the view that the official union leadership lacked the ability to deliver the votes which they promised. I pointed out that the use of the Australian, or secret, ballot on Election Day made it impractical for any special interests or individuals to impinge on the freedom of the voter to exercise his basic American right of free choice.

Now the congressmen are up in arms against your effrontery in using what some term blackmail techniques to punish them for voting contrary to your wishes.

But to my mind, their hurt is less than the implied disdain which you showed for the voters.

Your official letter implies that you and your associates have the ability to "brainwash" voters and make them wholly responsive to your leadership.

You would be on stronger ground if you related your activities to the economic realities. You weaken yourself by your own pipe dreams. In our debates, I have tried to set you straight, but curiously you chose to regard my objective, auditing approach as hostile and class-conscious.

You get off the track in your current circular letter in associating the congressmen who voted for the bill with two large national associations of businessmen. You lack the candor to point out that such Democratic and Republican representatives followed the leadership of President Eisenhower.

Just as such crude union hostility toward the late Sen. Bob Taft the last time he ran for re-election in Ohio proved a boomerang and just as brazen union opposition to Sen. Barry Goldwater in Arizona in the last election proved an asset to the senator, so your letter will strengthen every congressman you threatened when they come before the voters in the next election.

Sincerely,

M. S. R.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters, with self-addressed, stamped envelopes, should be sent in care of this newspaper. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column.

Engines May Lead Satellites

...In Peek-A-Boo Missions Around Globe

Evanston, Ill. (AP)—A scientist believes that rocket engines being designed to power future space ships could be put to much earlier use guiding satellites on reconnaisance missions around the globe.

Alfred Kunen, manager of the Plasma Propulsion Project at Republic Aviation Corp., said the low-thrust, lightweight engine using electrically-excited hot gasses as fuel, could power and steer satellites after they have obtained orbit.

A series of reconnaisance satellites circling the earth could instantly detect and warn of the firing of intercontinental ballistic missiles anywhere in the world.

Kunen said in an interview at the third biannual symposium conducted by the American Rockets Society and Northwestern University such a propulsion system—called a plasma engine—could alter the orbits of satellites.

No Tumble

He said such engines also could prevent satellites from tumbling end over end during orbit and keep them aloft longer by combating the drag force of particles found in outer space.

Plasma engines, now under development, are designed to power ships through space after they have been hurled into orbit by high-thrust heavyweight chemical engines.

The plasma engine supplies only a low amount of thrust but this energy is cumulative and would gradually increase the speed of the vehicle.

Kunen's firm is developing a magnetic pinch plasma engine that uses a hot gas for fuel. An electrical current is shot into the engine's gas compression chamber. This charge converts the gas into plasma by breaking the molecules down into electrons and positively charged atomic particles called ions.

The electrical current then passes around the plasma, setting up a magnetic field that pinches it into a tiny area. The electrical current accelerates and shoots the plasma through a nozzle out the rear at tremendous velocities.

Lancaster Interstate Bids Wait Funds OK

State Engineer Roy Cochran said Thursday contracts for two Interstate highway projects in Lancaster County included in Thursday bid openings would not have contracts awarded until Congress adjourns.

Congress is expected to come up with an answer to the Interstate financing problem which has been a thorn so far this year in the award of interstate projects.

Cochran said delay of awarding contracts is the same treatment being accorded to other interstate low bidders.

The Highway Department opened bids Thursday on an estimated $4,500,000 construction letting. Low bidders are expected to be announced Friday.

The two Lancaster County interstate projects are estimated to cost $2,200,000. They include 5.2 miles between U.S. 6 and the Cass County line and 1.1 miles west of Lincoln.

The $2,013,771 project on the 5.2 miles is scheduled for completion by Oct. 15, 1960, the state engineer said. It involves grading, bridges culverts and pavement.

The other project will cost about $196,264 and involves grading and culverts, Cochran said. It should be completed by Dec. 12.

Minimum wages range from $1.45 to $2.15 an hour, he said.

Cochran said he had no indication that wage scale disputes such as those encountered in Douglas County would arise in the Lancaster County projects.

Wage Scales Set Before Election—R.G.

McCook, Neb. (UPI)—Gov. Ralph Brooks said Thursday that the wage scales on highway construction jobs, about which he has been so severely criticized, were agreed to and adopted in 1958 before he was elected governor.

Former State Sen. Lester Anderson charged that Brooks was establishing a scale of wages far higher than the going wages for highway building in the state.

Brooks said "Mr. Anderson is all wet."

Brooks pointed out as an example that a haircut costs him more in Omaha than in McCook.

"That's exactly the way it is on the going rate in the area in which a highway is being constructed," he said. "These wages," he went on, "were agreed upon and set up by former state engineer L. N. Ress and former governor Victor Anderson, along with the contractors and unions."

Switching to the subject of his program to reduce traffice deaths in the state, the governor said for the first time in the history of Nebraska, non-hard surfaced roads will be patrolled.

Fireman Appeals To Get Back On Scottsbluff Force

A Scottsbluff fireman who once sued unsuccessfully for a pension is now trying to force the city to take him back on the force.

The fireman, Harry Schaub, has filed an appeal in Nebraska Supreme Court asking the city be required to assign him to duties by reason of the Civil Service Act.

The action was brought after Schaub lost in the supreme court a case in which he claimed disability and applied for a pension.

Help Rushed To Southern Mexico Area Hit By Quake

Mexico City (AP)—Rescue missions using planes and boats rushed help Thursday to quake-battered southern Mexico and carried on a difficult count of dead and injured.

There still was no accurate count of the dead from Wednesday's earthquake, the worst of the year in this country, but estimates ranged from 10 to 48. Officials said 14 deaths had been confirmed in Veracruz state.

Many communications lines still were knocked out.

The port of Coatzacoalcos and its surrounding area, hit hard Wednesday, felt another light shock before dawn Thursday. A few already damaged houses collapsed.

Although the severe quake was felt in six states, most of the heavy damage was reported in the southern portion of the state of Veracruz.

Hartington Boy Drowns In Pond

Hartington, Neb. (AP)—An 11-year-old Hartington boy drowned Thursday in a farm pond on the southeast edge of Hartington.

The youth, Scott Gobel, was the son of Hartington attorney Gordon Gobel. Young Gobel was swimming on the F. J. Peitz farm when the accident occurred.

Efforts by the Hartington Rescue Suad to revive him failed

Funeral Service Set For Omahan

Omaha (AP) — Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Friday for Mrs. Edith Dumont Smith, 78, retired Omaha social worker.

Mrs. Smith died Monday in Steamboat Springs, Colo., where she had lived since her retirement in 1949. She had been ill about a year with a heart ailment.

The retired executive director of Family Service, Omaha's oldest private social agency, began her career there in 1924 as an apprentice worker.

Mrs. Smith had regarded the founding of the Psychiatric Consultation Service in 1941 as the main achievement of her association with the agency.

Survivors include two daughters and a brother.
